Directions for the following 3 (Three) items: Read the following two passages and answer the items that follow the passages. Your answers to these items should be based on the passages only

Passage - 1

If there is one place in the world that desperately needs cleaning, it is the human mind. This is because many of us carry minds cluttered with emotional junk. Criticism we couldn't process, rejection we never healed from, fear that quietly grew roots, and stress we learned to live with-this inner junk accumulates unnoticed until one day we begin to feel exhausted without knowing why. That is when the need to dejunk arises. Decluttering the mind does not begin with changing people or circumstances. It begins with examining our attitude: how we see situations, how we interpret the behaviour of others towards us, and how we speak to ourselves internally. A de-cluttered mind does not mean a problem-free life. It means a life where problems no longer define our inner state. And that is true wealth.

Q.46) Which one of the following statements best reflects the critical message conveyed by the author of the passage?

a) The clearer our mind, the better we can face life's challenges with focus and confidence.
b) Having clarity of thought does not mean a person does not face challenges.
c) Although mental health is crucial for overall well-being, it is frequently neglected in daily life.

निम्नलिखित 3 (तीन) प्रश्नांशों के लिए निर्देश:
निम्नलिखित दो परिच्छेदों को पढ़िए और परिच्छेदों के बाद दिए गए प्रश्नों के उत्तर दीजिए। इन प्रश्नों के आपके उत्तर केवल परिच्छेदों पर आधारित होने चाहिए।

परिच्छेद - 1

यदि दुनिया में किसी एक चीज़ को सबसे ज्यादा सफ़ाई की ज़रूरत है, तो वह है मनुष्य का मन । ऐसा इसलिए क्योंकि हममें से अधिकतर लोग अपने मन में भावनात्मक कचरा भरकर रखते हैं। वह आलोचना जिसे हम पचा नहीं पाए, वह अस्वीकृति जिससे हम कभी उबर नहीं पाए, वह डर जिसने मन में चुपचाप जड़ें जमा लीं, और वह तनाव जिसके साथ हमने जीना सीख लिया — यह सब भीतरी कचरा बिना किसी सूचना के इकट्ठा होता रहता है। और फिर एक दिन हम बिना कारण जाने थकान और बेचैनी महसूस करने लगते हैं। तब एहसास होता है कि इस कचरे को हटाने की जरूरत है। मन को साफ करने की शुरुआत लोगों या परिस्थितियों को बदलने से नहीं होती, बल्कि अपने नज़रिए को जांचने से होती है — हम परिस्थितियों को कैसे देखते हैं, दूसरों के व्यवहार का हम कैसे अर्थ लगाते हैं, और खुद से कैसी बातें करते हैं। साफ मन का मतलब यह नहीं कि जीवन में कोई समस्या न हो, बल्कि इसका मतलब है कि समस्याएं अब हमारी आंतरिक स्थिति को परिभाषित नहीं करतीं। और यही असली संपत्ति है।

Q.46) निम्नलिखित में से कौन सा कथन लेखक द्वारा व्यक्त किए गए परिच्छेद के मुख्य संदेश को सबसे अच्छी तरह दर्शाता है?

a) हमारा मन जितना साफ होगा, हम जीवन की चुनौतियों का उतना ही बेहतर ध्यान और आत्मविश्वास से सामना कर सकते हैं।
b) विचारों में स्पष्टता होने का मतलब यह नहीं है कि व्यक्ति को चुनौतियों का सामना नहीं करना पड़ता।
c) यद्यपि मानसिक स्वास्थ्य समग्र कल्याण के लिए महत्वपूर्ण है, फिर भी दैनिक जीवन में इसकी अक्सर उपेक्षा की जाती है।
d) भावनाओं को संसाधित करना और स्वीकार करना दिमाग को साफ करता है, जिससे हम जीवन की चुनौतियों का शांतिपूर्वक सामना कर पाते हैं।

Passage - 2

Although river basins are widely acknowledged as the most suitable natural units for planning and managing surface water resources, governance structures in India have historically fragmented them into smaller administrative or political segments, often in an arbitrary manner. This fragmentation stems from two main factors: the managerial convenience it offers and adherence to existing political or geographical boundaries. Such an approach reflects a reductionist perspective that treats water merely as a resource to be exploited to meet human needs within defined territories. Consequently, it has weakened integrated basin-level planning, adversely affecting the effectiveness of water governance.

Q.48) With reference to the above passage, the following assumptions have been made:

I. Inter-state river water disputes in India largely arise from the fragmentation of river basins in the process of water management.

II. Adopting an integrated river basin management approach can significantly improve the efficiency of water governance.

परिच्छेद - 2

यद्यपि नदी घाटियों को सतही जल संसाधनों की योजना और प्रबंधन के लिए सबसे उपयुक्त प्राकृतिक इकाइयों के रूप में व्यापक रूप से मान्यता प्राप्त है, भारत में शासन संरचनाओं ने ऐतिहासिक रूप से उन्हें छोटे प्रशासनिक या राजनीतिक खंडों में विभाजित कर दिया है, जो अक्सर मनमाने ढंग से किया गया। यह विखंडन दो मुख्य कारकों से उपजा है: यह प्रबंधकीय सुविधा प्रदान करता है और मौजूदा राजनीतिक या भौगोलिक सीमाओं का पालन करता है। ऐसा दृष्टिकोण एक न्यूनीकरणवादी परिप्रेक्ष्य को दर्शाता है जो पानी को केवल निर्धारित क्षेत्रों के भीतर मानवीय जरूरतों को पूरा करने के लिए दोहन किए जाने वाले संसाधन के रूप में मानता है। परिणामस्वरूप, इसने एकीकृत बेसिन-स्तरीय योजना को कमजोर कर दिया है, जिससे जल शासन की प्रभावशीलता पर प्रतिकूल प्रभाव पड़ा है।

Q.48) उपर्युक्त परिच्छेद के संदर्भ में, निम्नलिखित धारणाएं बनाई गई हैं:

I. भारत में अंतर-राज्यीय नदी जल विवाद बड़े पैमाने पर जल प्रबंधन की प्रक्रिया में नदी घाटियों के विखंडन से उत्पन्न होते हैं।

II. एकीकृत नदी बेसिन प्रबंधन दृष्टिकोण अपनाने से जल शासन की दक्षता में काफी सुधार हो सकता है।

Q.1) The staple commodities of export by the English East India Company from Bengal in the middle of the 18th century were:
a:) Raw cotton, oil-seeds and opium b:) Sugar, salt, zinc and lead.
c:) Copper, silver, gold, spices and tea d:) Cotton, silk, saltpetre and opium

Ans:) d
Exp:) Option d is the correct answer.
In 1600, the East India Company acquired a charter from the ruler of England, Queen Elizabeth I, granting it the sole right to trade with the East.
The fine qualities of cotton and silk produced in India, had a big market in Europe. So, cotton and silk from Bengal were the major items of export from India. Indigo and saltpetre were the other major imports from India, and the fact that both products were produced in the eastern Gangetic plain, especially in Bihar and Bengal, stimulated British efforts to establish factories on the east coast as well as the west coast of the Indian subcontinent. Pepper, cloves, cardamom and cinnamon from India too were in great demand in Europe. Early in the 18th century the Portuguese found that they could import opium from India and sell it in China at a considerable profit. By 1773 the British had discovered the trade, and became the leading suppliers of the Chinese market. The opium exports from British India to China increased from 4,000 chests per year at the beginning of the 19th Century to more than 60,000 chests by the 1880s.

Q.2) With reference to Portuguese governor Nino da Cunha, consider the following statements:
I. He captured Goa from the Sultan of Bijapur.
II. He shifted the Portuguese headquarters in India from Cochin to Goa.
III. He is considered to introduce the Cartaz system with the focus to establish a trade monopoly in the Indian Ocean.
Which of the statements given above is/are correct?
a:) I and II
b:) II only
c:) III only
d:) None of the above

Ans:) b
Exp:) Option b is the correct answer.
Nino da Cunha assumed office of the governor of Portuguese interests in India in 1529.
Statement I is incorrect: Alfonso de Albuquerque (and not Nino da Cunha) acquired Goa from the Sultan of Bijapur in 1510; the principal port of the Sultan of Bijapur became "the first bit of Indian territory to be under the Europeans since the time of Alexander the Great.
Statement II is correct: Nino da Cunha shifted the headquarters of the Portuguese government in India from Cochin to Goa.
Statement III is incorrect: The Cartaz system was introduced by Portuguese governor Francisco De Almeida (and not Nino da Cunha). Under the Cartaz system, every Asian ship was required to take a Cartaz from the Portuguese. It authorised the vessel to embark on a specified trip. The ports of call were also specified and generally included a visit to a Portuguese-controlled port to pay duties before proceeding to its destination. If a ship was found without a Cartaz, it was automatically confiscated and its crew immediately killed or sent to the galleys. Again, if a ship, even with a Cartaz, violated the conditions laid down in it, it was liable to confiscation.

Q.3) Consider the following crops:
I. Cashew
II. Cabbage
III. Chilli
Which of the above crops were introduced in India by the Portuguese?
a:) I and II only b:) II and III only
c:) I, II and III
d:) I and III only

Ans:) c
Exp:) Option c is the correct answer.
Option I is correct: Cashew (Anacardium occidentale L.) is indigenous to Central and South America, notably northeastern Brazil, where it is called by its Portuguese name Caju (the fruit) or Cajueiro (the tree). Portuguese and Spanish explorers who reached the New World, spread the tree to the tropical countries of the world. The crop was introduced in India from Brazil by the Portuguese during the later half of the 16th century mainly for afforestation and soil conservation. It is now widely grown in tropical climates, including parts of Africa and Asia, for its cashew "nuts" and "cashew apples".
Option II is correct: Maize (makka) was introduced into India via Africa and Spain by the Portuguese in the 16th century, and by the seventeenth century it was being listed as one of the major crops of western India.
Option III is correct: Chillies originated in the Americas and were introduced to India by the Portuguese. Before their arrival, Indian cuisine relied primarily on black pepper for pungency. Chillies quickly gained popularity due to their intense heat and ease of cultivation, becoming a hallmark of Indian spice blends.

Q.4) Which of the following event(s) contributed to the weakening of Dutch in India?
I. Battle of Bedara
II. Battle of Colochel
III. Battle of Wandiwash
Select the correct answer using the code given below:
a:) I and II
b:) I only
c:) I and III
d:) II only

Ans:) a Exp:) Option a is the correct answer.
Option I is correct: The Battle of Bedara (1759) was fought between the English and the Dutch forces. When the English established a factory at Masulipatam and opened trade at Petapuli, the Dutch interest lay in not allowing English to have a share in the Pulicat trade. This conflict of interests continued. In 1623 and again in 1653-54, the Dutch attacked the English ships. Between 1672-74 the Dutch again tried to obstruct English settlements at Surat and Bombay and captured an English vessel in the Bay of Bengal. The English joined hands with the Portuguese in India and succeeded in defeating the Dutch at Bedara (1759) which weakened the Dutch opposition in India greatly. Since then the Dutch confined themselves to "country trade" in India.

Option II is correct: In 1729, Marthanda Varma ascended the throne of Travancore, the kingdom was embattled on every front. From feudatories to rival kingdoms and European colonial powers seeking to establish a foothold in the South Asian region, Varma had to contend with several issues in the princely state. He defeated the Dutch in the Battle of Colachel in 1741. The Dutch never managed to recover from the defeat, and thereafter never resumed their colonial ambitions in India. The Battle of Colachel shattered the Dutch dream of colonizing Malabar.

Option III is incorrect: The decisive Battle of Wandiwash was fought between the English and the French forces (Third Carnatic War), and not with the Dutch forces, on January 22, 1760 at Wandiwash (or Vandavasi) in Tamil Nadu.

Q.5) Consider the following statements:
The farman, issued by Mughal emperor Farrukhsiyar in 1717 authorised the East India Company:
I. the right to trade duty-free in Bengal.
II. to mint Coins at Bombay.
III. to build a fortified factory at Madras.
Which of the statements given above is/are correct?
a:) I only b:) III only
c:) I and II
d:) II and III

Ans:) c
Exp:) Option c is the correct answer.
In 1717, the Mughal Emperor Farrukhsiyar's farmans, called Magna Carta of the East India Company, gave significant privileges to the Company in Bengal, Gujarat and Hyderabad. The important terms of the farman were as follows:
Statement I is correct: The farman granted the English Company the right to trade duty-free in Bengal. But, the Company issued Dastak – duty-free trade permit – to English private traders to trade customs-free in Bengal.
Statement II is correct: It authorised the East India Company to mint coins at Bombay, thus regularising the status of its coinage.
Statement III is incorrect: The permission to build a fortified factory at Madras was not granted through the Farrukhsiyar farman. In 1639, the British merchant Francis Day obtained permission from the ruler of Chandragiri to establish a fortified factory at Madras, which later became Fort St. George and replaced Masulipatnam as the headquarters of English settlements in South India.

Q.6) With reference to the Second Carnatic War, consider the following statements:
I. The war broke out as a result of succession disputes in the Hyderabad and Carnatic regions.

II. The Battle of St. Thome was the decisive battle of this war.
III. It was concluded with the signing of the Treaty of Pondicherry, 1754.
Which of the statements given above is/are correct?
a:) I and II
b:) II only
c:) III only
d:) I and III

Ans:) d
Exp:) Option d is the correct answer.
The background for the Second Carnatic War (1749 - 54) was provided by rivalry in India. The reason for the war was over the accession to the throne of Hyderabad following the death of Nizam-ul-Mulk, the founder of the independent kingdom of Hyderabad.
Statement I is correct: The immediate cause of the Second Carnatic War was over the succession rivalry in Carnatic and Hyderabad. The opportunity was provided by the death of Nizam-ul-Mulk in 1748 and the release of Chanda Sahib, the son-in-law of Dost Ali, the Nawab of Carnatic, by the Marathas in the same year. The accession of Nasir Jang, the son of the Nizam, to the throne of Hyderabad was opposed by Muzaffar Jang, the grandson of the Nawab, who laid claim to the throne saying that the Mughal Emperor had appointed him as the governor of the Carnatic. In the Carnatic, the appointment of Anwar-ud-din Khan as the Nawab was resented by Chanda Sahib. The French supported the claims of Muzaffar Jang and Chanda Sahib in the Deccan and Carnatic, respectively, while the English sided with Nasir Jang and Anwar-ud-din.
Statement II is incorrect: Battle of St. Thome (in Madras) was an important event of the First Carnatic War (and not the Second Carnatic War). It was fought between the French forces and the forces of Anwar-ud-din, the Nawab of Carnatic, to whom the English appealed for help. A small French army under Captain Paradise defeated the strong Indian army under Mahfuz Khan at St. Thome on the banks of the River Adyar. This revealed that even a small disciplined army could easily defeat a much larger Indian army. Further, this war adequately brought out the importance of naval force in the Anglo-French conflict in the Deccan.
Statement III is correct: The Second Carnatic War came to an end with the Treaty of Pondicherry in 1754 and Muhammad Ali was recognized as the Nawab of the Carnatic. Godeheu succeeded Dupleix as the French governor-general in India. Godeheu concluded the Treaty of Pondicherry with the British. The English and the French agreed not to interfere in the quarrels of native princes. Also, each party was left in possession of the territories actually occupied by them at the time of the treaty.

Q.7) In the context of history of Modern India, consider the following statements about Ijarah system:
I. It was a system of revenue farming.
II. Under this system the state collected land-revenues directly from peasants thus ending the role of middlemen.
Which of the statements given above is/are correct?
a:) I only
b:) II only
c:) Both I and II
d:) Neither I nor II

Ans:) a Exp:) Option a is the correct answer.

Statement I is correct: The Ijara system or revenue farming was one of the features of the revenue system. During the 18th century the Ijarah system became a common form of revenue assessment and collection. Thus, Ijarah system was a system of revenue farming.
It was popularized during the reign of Jahandar Shah by his noble Zulfiqar Khan.
Statement II is incorrect: Under the Ijara system, the state auctioned its right to collect taxes to the highest bidders known as Ijaredars, who were usually bankers and mahajans. In turn, the state was assured of a fixed income. Generally, the villages, where peasants did not have resources available for undertaking cultivation or where owing to some calamity cultivation could not be done, were farmed out on ijarah. The revenue officials or their relatives were not supposed to take land on ijarah. Thus, the state did not collect the land revenues directly from the peasants, it encouraged the role of middlemen.

Q.8) Consider the following
I. Portuguese
II. Danes
III. Dutch
IV. French
With reference to the European powers mentioned above, which of the following is the chronological order of the establishment of their first trading factories in India?
a:) II - I - IV - III
b:) III - IV - II - I
c:) I - III - II - IV
d:) I - II - III - IV

Ans:) c
Exp:) Option c is the correct answer.
Option c is correct: The correct chronological order of above-mentioned European countries as per the year of establishment of their factories in India: Portuguese (1500) - Dutch (1606) - British (1608) - Danes (1620).
Option I is correct: Portuguese (1500): The Portuguese established their first factory in 1500 at Calicut. However, it had a short-lived existence. The Zamorin of Calicut proved to be the major hindrance in the establishment of Portuguese power in Malabar. In 1525, finally, the Portuguese abandoned their construction at Calicut.
Option III: Dutch (1606): The Dutch East India Company was formed in 1602 through a charter. The Dutch were primarily interested in spice trade. Therefore, they paid more attention to the Far East. India was just a trading depot for them. They established their first factory at Petapuli in North Coromandal in 1606, followed by another at Masulipatam in the same year.
Option II: Danes (1620): The Danes entered as traders in 1616 but with no ambition to establish an Empire. They managed to secure the Tranquebar port from the Nayak of Tanjore in 1620 and founded a factory at Tranquebar (1620). Their principal settlement was at Serampore near Calcutta.
Option IV: French (1668): The French East India Company was founded in 1664. The first French factory was established at Surat in 1668.

Q.9) Consider the following statements with reference to Nizam-ul-Mulk Asaf Jah I:
I. He introduced mal jasmani system of revenue collection in Hyderabad.
II. He defeated the Mughal governor Mubraiz Khan in the Battle of Shakar Kheda in 1724.
Which of the statements given above is/are correct?
a:) I only
b:) II only
c:) Both I and II
d:) Neither I nor II

Ans:) b
Exp:) Option b is the correct answer.
Hyderabad was established in 1724 under Nizam-ul-Mulk (Asaf Jah) who was a Turani. When Farrukhsiyar ascended the throne, he appointed Nizam-ul-Mulk Asaf Jah as the governor of the Deccan.
Statement I is incorrect: Mal Jasmani system is also known as Murshid Quli Khan's Malzamini revenue settlement. It was introduced by Murshid Quli Khan, the Diwan-Subahdar (1700-1727) of the Subah of Bengal, during the early 18th century. He is believed to have insisted on new ijaradars (leaseholders) supplying security bonds, i.e., pre-guarantee, while entering yearly contracts for the collection and payment of the prescribed revenue on time.
Statement II is correct: After the death of his uncle, Muhammad Amin Khan, in 1721, Nizam-ul-Mulk became the next wazir of the Mughal empire. In addition to the office of wazir and the governorship of the Deccan he was also granted the governorship of Malwa and Gujarat. However, owing to factional strife at the court Muhammad Shah had him transferred to Awadh to keep him away from the court. To protest, Nizam-ul-Mulk resigned from the wizarat and went to the Deccan. Mubariz Khan, the newly appointed governor of the Deccan, was instructed to stop Nizam-ul-Mulk. The Nizam defeated Mubraiz Khan in the Battle of Shakar Kheda in 1724. Left with no choice, Muhammad Shah appointed him as the viceroy of the Deccan and honoured him with the title of Asaf Jah.

a:) He flourished during the reign of Kulothunga III of the Chola dynasty.
b:) He composed the Tamil epic Ramavataram.
c:) He was a contemporary of the celebrated Kannada poet Pampa.
d:) He was a Vaishnavite and was influenced by the teachings of Ramanuja.

Ans:) c
Exp:) Option c is the correct answer.
Statement a is correct: Kambar is believed to have lived from late 12th century CE to mid-13th century CE (1180 CE – 1250 CE) during the later phase of the Chola Empire.
1. He flourished during the reign of King Kulothunga Chola III (r. c. 1178–1218 CE) of the Chola dynasty.
2. Kambar was patronized by Sadayappa Vallal, a noble and philanthropist of the Chola court.
3. The cultural and literary patronage under the Cholas provided a fertile ground for Kambar's poetic contributions.
Statement b is correct: Kambar's most celebrated work is Ramavataram, popularly known as the Kamba Ramayanam.
1. It is a retelling of Valmiki's Sanskrita Ramayana in Tamil, and it remains a cornerstone of Tamil literature.
2. It was written in the 12th century CE.
Some other notable works composed by Kambar include:

1. Tirukkai Valakkam – Ethical and moral verses
2. Erelupatu & Silai Elupatu – Spiritual compositions
3. Kangai Puranam – Temple-centric mythological text
4. Sadagopar Antati & Saraswati Antati – Devotional poetry
Statement c is incorrect: Pampa, one of the greatest Kannada poets, lived in the 10th century CE, and is celebrated for his works such as Adi Purana and Vikramarjuna Vijaya.
1. Kambar, on the other hand, lived in the 12th century CE, nearly two centuries later.
2. Therefore, the two poets did not live during the same period and cannot be considered contemporaries.
Statement d is correct: Kambar was a devout Vaishnavite, and his religious outlook was influenced by the philosophical teachings of Sri Ramanuja (1017–1137 CE), the great theologian and proponent of Vishishtadvaita Vedanta.
1. The spiritual undercurrents in Kambar's Ramavataram reflect the ideals of devotion, surrender (prapatti), and the centrality of Lord Vishnu, all key tenets of Ramanuja's philosophy.
2. He lived after Ramanuja, and even referenced Ramanuja in his writings, reflecting the reverence he held for Ramanuja.

Q.11) Examine these two statements carefully and select the correct answer using the codes given below.
Statement I: In 1856, Nawab Wajid Ali Shah was dethroned and exiled to Calcutta on the plea that the region was being misgoverned.
Statement II: The Nawab was accused of being unable to control the rebellious chiefs and Taluqdars.
Codes:
a:) Both the statements are individually true and Statements II is the correct explanation of Statement I b:) Both the statements are individually true but Statement II is not the correct explanation of Statement I c:) Statement I is true but Statement II is false
d:) Statement I is false but Statement II is true

Ans:) a Exp:) Option a is the correct answer.
Statement I is correct: In 1856, Nawab Wajid Ali Shah was dethroned and exiled to Calcutta on the plea that the region was being misgoverned. Nawab Wajid Ali Shah was the last ruler of Awadh, a princely state in northern India. He was deposed by Lord Dalhousie, the Governor-General of India, who accused him of neglecting the administration and welfare of his subjects. The British East India Company then annexed Awadh and brought it under its direct rule. This was one of the causes of the revolt of 1857, as many people in Awadh resented the British interference and injustice.
Statement II is correct: The Nawab was accused of being unable to control the rebellious chiefs and Taluqdars. The chiefs and Taluqdars were the local landlords and nobles who had considerable power and influence in Awadh. They often defied the authority of the Nawab and resisted his attempts to reform the revenue system and curb their privileges. The British used this as a pretext to justify their annexation of Awadh, claiming that they would restore law and order and protect the rights of the peasants.
Statement II is also the correct explanation of Statement I. The British allegation of misgovernance against Nawab Wajid Ali Shah was based on his supposed inability to control the rebellious chiefs and Taluqdars, who posed a threat to the stability and security of Awadh. The British argued that they had to intervene and take over Awadh to ensure its proper administration and development.

Q.12) With reference to modern Indian History, consider the following information:

Treaty	Description	Signed between
I. Treaty of Surat	Signed at the end of First Anglo Maratha War	Rahunath Rao and the British
II. Treaty of Salbai	Its provisions led to the Second Anglo Maratha War	Nana Phadnavis and the British
III. Treaty of Bassein	Signed at the end of Second Anglo Maratha War	Bajirao II and the British

In how many of the above rows is the given information correctly matched?
a:) Only one b:) Only two c:) All the three
d:) None

Ans:) d
Exp:) Option d is the correct answer.
The Marathas emerged as a powerful force in western and central India during the latter half of the eighteenth century. However, internal rivalries among Maratha chiefs allowed the British East India Company to intervene in their affairs, leading to three Anglo-Maratha Wars (1775–1782, 1803–1805, and 1817–1818).
Row I is incorrect: The first British intervention in Maratha affairs occurred during the succession dispute for the Peshwaship after the death of Narayan Rao. Raghunath Rao (Raghoba) sought British support against the opposition led by Nana Phadnavis at Poona. This led to the First Anglo-Maratha War (1775–1782) and the signing of the Treaty of Surat (1775), under which Raghunath Rao ceded Salsette and Bassein and part of the revenues of Surat and Bharuch to the British in return for military support of 2,500 troops.
Thus it was the cause of the First Anglo Maratha War and not signed at the end of First Anglo Maratha war.
Row II is incorrect: Treaty of Salbai (1782), was signed at the end of First Anglo- Maratha war(not the reason for second Anglo Maratha war) between Nana Phadnavis and the British which confirmed British possession of Salsette and recognized Madhav Rao Narayan as the rightful Peshwa.
Row III is incorrect: The treaty of Bassein (1802) was signed between Baji Rao II and the British under which the Peshwa lost his independent authority in handling relations with other powers without the British consent and had to pay a large annual subsidy. The second Anglo Maratha War was fought between 1803 till 1805. Thus, the Treaty of Bassein was not signed with the conclusion of the Second Anglo Maratha war, rather its provisions led to the Second Anglo Maratha war.

Exp:) Option a is the correct answer.

After the defeat of Tipu Sultan in 1799, the British restored Mysore to the Wodeyar dynasty under the ruler, Krishnaraja Wodeyar III and Subsidiary Alliance was imposed on the state. The widespread grievances, corruption, and extortion by local officials in Mysore led to a peasant revolt in 1830, particularly in the Nagar province known as Nagara rebellion.

Statement I is correct: Nagara Rebellion was led by peasants in the Malnad region of Karnataka against the ruler of Mysore state.

Statement II is incorrect: The financial pressure from the company on the Mysore ruler after the imposition of subsidiary alliance compelled him to increase revenue demands from the Zamindars. The increasing burden of revenue ultimately fell on the cultivators. The corruption and extortion of local officials added to the existing miseries of the peasants. As a result, the peasants started the rebellion against the taxation and inhuman practices of the rulers.

The Khond uprising is related to the ban on human sacrifice.

Q.14) Which of the statements given below was the primary reason for the Second Anglo-Mysore war?
a:) The British providing support to the Nizam of Hyderabad in his territorial dispute with Mysore.
b:) The capture of Seringapatnam by the British forces.
c:) The British attempt to capture Mahe.
d:) The imposition of subsidiary alliance on Mysore by the British.

Ans:) c

Exp:) Option c is the correct answer.

The Treaty of Madras was signed in 1769 which concluded the first Anglo-Mysore War (1767- 69). As per the Treaty of Madras, Haidar Ali was promised the help of the English in case he was attacked by any other power. However, the British failed to adhere to this provision when Mysore was attacked by the Maratha army in 1771.

During the American War of Independence (1775-1783) in which France supported the American colonists and the fact that Haider granted an important port of Mahe to the French, the British realized the urgency to deal with Mysore. The British seized Mahe in 1779. Consequently, Haider in alliance with the Marathas and the Nizam attacked them in 1780 and this marked the outbreak of the Second Anglo-Mysore War (1780-84).

Haider Ali died during the war. He was succeeded by his son Tipu Sultan. The war ended with the Treaty of Mangalore.

Q.16) With reference to Modern Indian History, consider the following statements:

Statement I: After the mid-18th century, the import of gold and silver into India from Britain significantly reduced.

Statement II: The East India company acquired the mining rights of gold mines in Kolar and Sonbhadra in the mid-18th century.

Statement III: After 1757, the resources of Bengal financed the English East India company's investments in India.

Which one of the following is correct in respect of the above statements?

a:) Both Statement II and Statements III are correct and both of them explain Statement I.

b:) Both Statement II and Statement III are correct but only one of them explains Statement I.

c:) Only one of the Statements II and III is correct and explains Statement I.

d:) Neither Statement II nor Statement III is correct.

Ans:) c

Exp:) Option c is the correct answer.

Statement I is correct: During the 17th and early 18th centuries, Indo-European trade was largely characterized by the exchange of precious metals (mainly silver) for Indian goods, as European companies imported bullion to purchase Indian manufactures and primary products. However, after the British conquest of Bengal in 1757, the influx of bullion into India declined sharply.

Statement II is incorrect: Kolar Gold Fields (KGF) is a mining region in Karnataka, famous for being the oldest and deepest gold mine in India. It was established by the British in 1880 and operated until 2001, producing about 800 tonnes of gold during its lifespan. However, Sonbhadra gold mine in Uttar Pradesh, where a massive gold reserve was discovered in 2020 by the Geological Survey of India (GSI).

Statement III is correct: After the British conquest of Bengal in 1757, the English East India Company began financing its investments using the revenues and resources of Bengal. As a result, the Company no longer depended on bullion imports from Europe. The investments of other European companies gradually declined, and the remaining trade was largely financed by private funds of Company servants and British individuals, who received bills of exchange in Europe in return.

Since, mid-18th century, import of gold and silver into India from Britain significantly reduced as the English East India Company began financing its investments using the revenues and resources of Bengal. Hence option c is correct: Only one of the Statements II and III is correct and explains Statement I.

a:) The Chuar Uprising
b:) The Pahariya Rebellion
c:) The Rampa Rebellion
d:) The Kol Uprising

Ans:) b
Exp:) Option b is the correct answer.
Pahariyas' Rebellion- The British expansion on their territory led to an uprising by the martial Pahariyas of the Raj Mahal Hills in 1778. The British were forced to usher in peace by declaring their territory as Damni-Kol/Damin-i-Koh area. The Damin-i-Koh area was exempted from the jurisdiction of ordinary Courts and put under the sole charge of the Collector. He made his own rules for conduct of the affairs of the area.

1. The Kol Mutiny (1831–1832) occurred in the Chotanagpur Plateau, covering regions such as Ranchi, Singhbhum, Hazaribagh, Palamau, and the western parts of Manbhum. Kol tribes traditionally lived under a system of communal landholding led by tribal headmen. The rebellion emerged after the expansion of the East India Company administration introduced new revenue and judicial policies. Large-scale transfer of tribal lands to outsiders (Dikus) led to exploitation through heavy rents and taxes, while colonial legal systems weakened the authority of tribal chiefs.

Resentment against this economic and social disruption culminated in 1831, when the Kols, under the leadership of Buddho Bhagat, launched a violent uprising.

2. The Rampa Rebellion (1879–1880)- Eastern Ghats within the Godavari Agency tracts of present-day Andhra Pradesh. The rebellion was triggered mainly by colonial restrictions on traditional forest rights, particularly the curbing of Podu (shifting) cultivation, along with new regulations imposed under the Agency Tract system, which interfered with the tribes' customary autonomy and livelihoods. Q.24) The decline of the Mughal Empire in the 18th century led to the establishment of several regional states. In this context, consider the following pairs:

S.No.	Regional state	Founder
I.	Farrukhabad	Muhammad Khan Bangash
II.	Awadh	Sadat Khan
III.	Bengal	Alivardi Khan

How many of the pairs given above are correctly matched?
a:) Only one
b:) Only two
c:) All the three
d:) None

Ans:) b
Exp:) Option b is the correct answer.

With the decline of the Mughal Empire in the 18th century, several regional polities emerged. These can be broadly classified into three types: states that broke away from the Mughal Empire (such as Bengal, Awadh, and Hyderabad), states established by rebels against Mughal authority (such as the Marathas, Jats, and Sikhs), and independent states that were not directly linked to the Mughal administrative system (such as Mysore and Travancore).

Pair I is correct: Farrukhabad was an independent state established by Muhammad Khan Bangash, a rebel against Mughal authority to the east of Delhi.

Pair II is correct: Saadat Khan Burhan-ul-Mulk established the autonomous principality of Awadh in 1722 after being appointed as the Mughal governor (Subahdar) of the province. Over time, he consolidated power and laid the foundation of a semi-independent regional state, while maintaining nominal allegiance to the Mughal emperor.

Pair III is incorrect: Murshid Quli Khan (not Alivardi Khan) founded the autonomous state of Bengal and emerged as a capable administrator who made the province prosperous. After his death in 1727, he was succeeded by his son Shuja-ud-Din. Later, Sarfaraz Khan became the ruler but was defeated and killed in 1740 at the Battle of Gheria by Alivardi Khan, the deputy governor of Bihar. Alivardi Khan then assumed power and ruled Bengal with practical independence while maintaining nominal allegiance to the Mughal emperor by sending annual tribute.

Ans:) c
Exp:) Option c is the correct answer.
Statement a is correct: The Konda Reddi are officially recognized by the Government of India as a Particularly Vulnerable Tribal Group (PVTG).
1. PVTGs are a sub-category among Scheduled Tribes who are more vulnerable due to factors like small population size, low literacy, pre-agricultural level of technology, and economic backwardness.

Q.26) With reference to British colonial rule in India, consider the following:
I. Age of Consent Act
II. Native Marriage Act
III. Sarda Act/The Child Marriage Restraint Act
Arrange the above social reform acts in the chronological order of their enactment:
a:) II – I – III
b:) I – II – III
c:) II – III – I
d:) I – III – II

Ans:) a Exp:) Option a is the correct answer.
During the late nineteenth and early twentieth centuries, several reformers in India raised serious concerns about practices such as child marriage. Social debates, court cases, and reform movements gradually pushed the colonial government to introduce legal measures.
Option I. The Age of Consent Act, 1891 raised the minimum age at which a girl could legally consent to marital relations. The law forbade the marriage of girls below the age of 12 years.
The passage of this Act was strongly influenced by public debates generated by the Rukhmabai case. In this famous legal dispute, Rukhmabai refused to live with her husband, arguing that she had been married as a child without meaningful consent. Reformers such as Behramji Malabari actively campaigned for legislative change, which ultimately led to the enactment of this law.
Option II. The Native Marriage Act of 1872, also called the Civil Marriage Act, was one of the earliest legislative attempts to regulate marriage in colonial India. It allowed Indians to marry through a civil procedure outside the strict framework of religious customs. However, its practical impact remained limited. The Act did not apply to major religious communities such as Hindus and Muslims. As a result, the widespread practice of child marriage continued largely unaffected. Nevertheless, the Act is historically important because it introduced the idea that the state could intervene in matters of marriage.
Option III. The Child Marriage Restraint Act, 1929, popularly known as the Sarda Act, represented a more direct attempt to curb child marriage. It was introduced by Harbilas Sarda, a member of the Central Legislative Assembly. The Act fixed the minimum marriage age at 18 years for boys and 14 years for girls. This legislation marked a significant step because it specifically targeted the practice of child marriage itself.
Therefore, the correct chronological order, starting from the earliest is:
II. Native Marriage Act (1872)
I. Age of Consent Act (1891)
III. Sarda Act (1929)
Knowledge Base: Other related laws:
1. The Bengal Sati Regulation (Regulation XVII) of 1829
2. the Hindu Widows' Remarriage Act of 1856
3. The Female Infanticide Prevention Act of 1870
4. The Special Marriage Act of 1872

2. Cloves and nutmegs were collected at Surat by the Dutch and exported to Europe.
Which of the statements given above is/are correct?
a:) 1 only b:) 2 only
c:) Both 1 and 2

d:) Neither 1 nor 2

Ans:) c

Exp:) Option c is the correct answer

The Dutch East India Company (VOC) arrived in India in the early 17th century, primarily to participate in the lucrative spice trade of the East Indies and to compete with the Portuguese and later the English. Their presence in India was commercial, not territorial.

1. First arrival: The Dutch reached the Indian coast in 1605, and soon after, they established their first trading post at Masulipatnam on the Coromandel Coast in 1605.

2. Their main commercial interest in India was the acquisition of textiles, indigo, silk, and saltpetre, which they used to trade for spices in Southeast Asia.

Statement 1 is correct: The Dutch East India Company (VOC) established a strong trading post at Chinsurah near Hooghly in Bengal in the early 17th century.

1. Bengal was a major center of fine quality silk and textiles.

2. The Dutch exported silk and cotton textiles from Bengal, especially through the Hooghly River, which was a vital trade route.

Q.33) Consider the following demands:
I. Induction of Indians into the higher grades of government services.
II. Protection of ryots from oppressive zamindars.
III. Freedom of the press.
IV. Establishment of separate electorates for Indians in legislative councils.
Which of the above demands were primarily put forward by the leaders of the Young Bengal Movement?
a:) I and III only b:) I, II and III only
c:) II and IV only
d:) I, II, III and IV

Ans:) b
Exp:) Option b is the correct answer.
The Young Bengal Movement represented one of the earliest expressions of radical intellectual reform in colonial India. It emerged in the late 1820s and early 1830s under the leadership of Henry Vivian Derozio, a teacher at Hindu College, Calcutta. Derozio inspired a group of bright students–later known as the Derozians–to adopt free thinking, rational inquiry and a questioning attitude towards social and political authority.
Drawing inspiration from the French Revolution, the movement championed ideals such as liberty, equality and intellectual freedom. Although the group was small and socially limited, its members actively participated in public debates and raised several progressive demands relating to governance and social reform.
Option I is correct. Members of the Young Bengal Movement strongly argued that Indians should be appointed to higher administrative posts within the colonial government. At a time when senior positions were almost exclusively held by Europeans, the Derozians demanded greater participation of educated Indians in governance. This reflected their early nationalist concern for equality in administrative opportunities.
Option II is correct. The Derozians also expressed concern about the plight of peasants under the zamindari system. They demanded protection of ryots (peasants) from exploitative landlords, highlighting the need for fair treatment and justice in agrarian relations. Though their engagement with rural issues remained limited, the demand demonstrated their sensitivity to social and economic injustices.
Option III is correct. The Young Bengal intellectuals supported freedom of the press as an essential condition for public debate and reform. They also demanded the introduction of trial by jury, which they saw as a hallmark of modern legal systems and an important safeguard against arbitrary authority. These demands reflected their broader commitment to liberal political values derived from Western Enlightenment thought.
Option IV is incorrect. The idea of separate electorates emerged much later in Indian constitutional politics, particularly with the Morley–Minto Reforms of 1909, which introduced separate electorates for Muslims. The Young Bengal Movement belonged to an earlier phase of nineteenth-century reform, and therefore did not advocate such electoral arrangements.

Q.42) In the context of Modern Indian History, consider the following statements:
I. The currency regulation which compelled the people to pay their land tax in silver instead of in cowries as before.
II. The hereditary rent-free land being taken away.
III. The heavy salt tax in the coastal areas.
Which of the above actions by the British East India Company were the causes behind the Paika/Paik rebellion of 1817?
a:) I and II only b:) I and III only c:) II and III only d:) I, II and III

Ans:) d
Exp:) Option d is the correct answer.
The Paika rebellion occurred mainly during 1817–1818 in the Khurda region of present-day Odisha.
The British launched a military campaign against Khurda.
Khurda was conquered in December 1804 and Mukunda Deva II, raja of Khurda was captured and imprisoned.
The British Government appointed a Commission to investigate into the causes of this outbreak. The Commissioners reported that the Government itself was to a large extent to blame. The causes pointed out by the commission were- The resumption of large tract of service land, the currency regulation which compelled the people to pay their land tax in silver instead of in cowries as before, the heavy salt duty, the extortions and chicanery of subordinate officials, were all bitter grounds of discontent.

Statement I is correct. Cowry shells (kauṛi) were the main local currency used by Oriya cultivators for market exchange and tax payments. Under the Maratha Empire, the exchange rate was about 3–4 kāhāṇa of cowries per silver rupee. After British colonization, taxes had to be paid in silver rupees (from 1809). Copper coins were introduced in 1811, altering the local monetary system. As a result, the value of cowries sharply depreciated to about 7 kāhāṇa per rupee. This depreciation hurt local people, because they had long relied on cowries for daily trade and tax payments.

As a result of this Khonds tribals of Ghumsar region rose in open rebellion against British authority which was soon joined by the paikas of Khurda region under Buxi Jagbandhu.

Statement II is correct: The Paikas were a class of military retainers who had been recruited from various social groups by the Gajapati rulers of Odisha since the 16th century. They would render martial services to the king in return for hereditary rent-free land (nish-kar jagirs) which they would cultivate during peacetime.

The end of native rule in Odisha marked the beginning of the decline of the Paikas' power and prestige. Apart from losing political patronage, the Paikas, who previously enjoyed rent-free land, suffered due to new land revenue settlements introduced by the East India Company. Many were forced to transfer land to Bengali absentee landlords. Their hereditary rent-free land being taken away, along with a host of other economic difficulties, eventually led to a full-scale revolt against British rule.

Statement III is correct: The British had control over salt which was extended to coastal Odisha in 1814 – led to rising hardship for the people in the hills. The heavy salt duty imposed by the English East India Company was one of the causes of the revolt.

Passage – 1

If there is one place in the world that desperately needs cleaning, it is the human mind. This is because many of us carry minds cluttered with emotional junk. Criticism we couldn't process, rejection we never healed from, fear that quietly grew roots, and stress we learned to live with-this inner junk accumulates unnoticed until one day we begin to feel exhausted without knowing why. That is when the need to dejunk arises. Decluttering the mind does not begin with changing people or circumstances. It begins with examining our attitude: how we see situations, how we interpret the behaviour of others towards us, and how we speak to ourselves internally. A de-cluttered mind does not mean a problem-free life. It means a life where problems no longer define our inner state. And that is true wealth.

Q.46) Which one of the following statements best reflects the critical message conveyed by the author of the passage?
a:) The clearer our mind, the better we can face life's challenges with focus and confidence.
b:) Having clarity of thought does not mean a person does not face challenges.
c:) Although mental health is crucial for overall well-being, it is frequently neglected in daily life.
d:) Processing and acknowledging emotions clears the mind, enabling us to approach life's challenges calmly.

Ans:) d
Exp:) Option d is the correct answer.
Statement a is incorrect. While the statement represents one of the central ideas of the passage, it does not best reflect the critical message conveyed by the author of the passage as it fails to highlight that processing emotions is important to maintain clarity of thought.
Statement b is incorrect. The passage states "A de-cluttered mind does not mean a problem-free life." However, statement b does not best reflect the critical message conveyed by the author of the passage as it highlights a peripheral idea rather than the central theme of the passage.
Statement c is incorrect. The passage states "Criticism we couldn't process, rejection we never healed from, fear that quietly grew roots, and stress we learned to live with-this inner junk accumulates unnoticed". However, statement c does not best reflect the critical message conveyed by the author of the passage as it does not highlight the consequences of neglecting mental health.
Statement d is correct. It best reflects the critical message conveyed by the author, as it summarizes the passage comprehensively. It highlights that one needs to process their emotions in order to maintain a calm mind, which in turn helps them deal with life's challenges more effectively.

Passage – 1

If there is one place in the world that desperately needs cleaning, it is the human mind. This is because many of us carry minds cluttered with emotional junk. Criticism we couldn't process, rejection we never healed from, fear that quietly grew roots, and stress we learned to live with-this inner junk accumulates unnoticed until one day we begin to feel exhausted without knowing why. That is when the need to dejunk arises. Decluttering the mind does not begin with changing people or circumstances. It begins with examining our attitude: how we see situations, how we interpret the behaviour of others towards us, and how we speak to ourselves internally. A de-cluttered mind does not mean a problem-free life. It means a life where problems no longer define our inner state. And that is true wealth.

Q.47) With reference to the above passage, the following assumptions have been made:
I. The fast pace of modern life often leaves little time to process our emotions.
II. Unexpressed or unprocessed emotions can accumulate over time, often resulting in emotional fatigue.
Which of the above assumptions is/are valid?
a:) I only
b:) II only
c:) Both I and II
d:) Neither I nor II

Ans:) b
Exp:) Option b is the correct answer.
Statement I is invalid. While the passage states that emotional junk hampers our well- being, it does not attribute the accumulation of emotional junk to the pace of the modern world. Therefore, the assumption is outside the scope of the passage and thus incorrect.

Statement II is valid. The passage states "Criticism we couldn't process, rejection we never healed from, fear that quietly grew roots, and stress we learned to live with-this inner junk accumulates unnoticed until one day we begin to feel exhausted without knowing why". From here we can conclude that assumption made in statement II is correct.

Passage – 2

Although river basins are widely acknowledged as the most suitable natural units for planning and managing surface water resources, governance structures in India have historically fragmented them into smaller administrative or political segments, often in an arbitrary manner. This fragmentation stems from two main factors: the managerial convenience it offers and adherence to existing political or geographical boundaries. Such an approach reflects a reductionist perspective that treats water merely as a resource to be exploited to meet human needs within defined territories. Consequently, it has weakened integrated basin-level planning, adversely affecting the effectiveness of water governance.

Q.48) With reference to the above passage, the following assumptions have been made:
I. Inter-state river water disputes in India largely arise from the fragmentation of river basins in the process of water management.
II. Adopting an integrated river basin management approach can significantly improve the efficiency of water governance.
Which of the above assumptions is/are valid?
a:) I only
b:) II only
c:) Both I and II
d:) Neither I nor II

Ans:) b
Exp:) Option b is the correct answer.
Statement I is invalid. While the passage mentions that fragmentation of river basins for management of water has weakened integrated basin level plannings, it does not mention inter-state disputes to be a result of this fragmentation. Therefore, the assumption is outside the scope of the passage and thus incorrect.
Statement II is valid. The passage states that fragmentation of river basins has weakened integrated basin-level planning, adversely affecting the effectiveness of water governance. Therefore, we can conclude that assumption made in statement II is correct.

Q.49) The average of seven distinct positive integers n_1, n_2, n_3, n_4, n_5, n_6, and n_7 is A. It is observed that the average of (n_1 and n_2) is A, the average of (n_3, n_4, and n_5) is A and the value of n_6 is exactly (A + 10). What is the value of n_7?
a:) A + 10
b:) A - 10 c:) A d:) 2A - 10

Ans:) b
Exp:) Option b is the correct answer.
Given:

The average of 7 numbers is A.
Total Sum = ($n_1 + n_2 + n_3 + n_4 + n_5 + n_6 + n_7$) = 7A.
Breaking Down the Components:
1. Group 1 (n_1, n_2): Since their average is A, their sum is (2 × A) = 2A.
2. Group 2 (n_3, n_4, n_5): Since their average is A, their sum is (3 × A) = 3A.
3. Group 3 (n_6): Given as A + 10.
Sum of all groups + n_7 = Total Sum (2A) + (3A) + (A + 10) + n_7 = 7A Solving for n_7:
6A + 10 + n_7 = 7A
n_7 = 7A - 6A - 10
n_7 = A - 10
Therefore, Option b is the correct answer.

Q.50) Consider the set of all natural numbers from 101 to 300, inclusive. How many of these numbers are not divisible by any of the prime numbers 2, 3, or 5?
a:) 52
b:) 54
c:) 66
d:) 67

Ans:) b
Exp:) Option b is the correct answer.
Total numbers from 101 to 300 (inclusive): 300 – 101 + 1 = 200
Count numbers divisible by 2 or 3 or 5 using inclusion–exclusion, then subtract from 200.
Count divisible by 2
Multiples of 2 from 102 to 300:
Count = (300/2) – (100/2) = 150 – 50 = 100
Count divisible by 3
Multiples of 3 from 102 to 300:
Count = (300/3) – (99/3) = 100 – 33 = 67
Count divisible by 5
Multiples of 5 from 105 to 300:
Count = (300/5) – (100/5) = 60 – 20 = 40
Subtract overlaps
Divisible by 6 (2 and 3)
Multiples of 6 from 102 to 300:
Count = (300/6) – (96/6) = 50 – 16 = 34
Divisible by 10 (2 and 5)
Multiples of 10 from 110 to 300:
Count = (300/10) – (100/10) = 30 – 10 = 20
Divisible by 15 (3 and 5)
Multiples of 15 from 105 to 300:
Count = (300/15) – (90/15) = 20 – 6 = 14
Add triple overlap
Divisible by 30 (2, 3, and 5)
Multiples of 30 from 120 to 300:
Count = (300/30) – (90/30) = 10 – 3 = 7
Total divisible by 2 or 3 or 5

= (100 + 67 + 40) – (34 + 20 + 14) + 7 = 207 – 68 + 7 = 146

Not divisible by any of 2, 3, 5

= 200 – 146 = 54
