Q.1) A legislation which confers on the executive or administrative authority an unguided and uncontrolled discretionary power in the matter of application of law violates which one of the following Articles of the Constitution of India?
a) Article 14
b) Article 28
c) Article 32
d) Article 44

Ans) a
Exp) Option a is the correct answer.
Article 14 of Indian Constitution says that the State shall not deny to any person equality before the law or the equal protection of the laws within the territory of India. The concept of 'equality before law' is an element of the concept of 'Rule of Law'. Thus a legislation which confers on the executive or administrative authority an unguided and uncontrolled discretionary power in the matter of application of law leads to violation of Article 14 as there should be absence of arbitrary power.

Q.2) With reference to the Personality Rights, consider the following statements:
I. It refers to an individual's right to safeguard one's name, image, voice, or other distinctive traits from unauthorised commercial exploitation.
II. Presently, these are not codified under a single statute in India.
II. As per the recent Supreme Court judgement, these rights are rooted in Article 19(1)(a) of the Indian Constitution.
Which of the statements given above is/are correct?
a) I and II only
b) II and III only
c) I only
d) I, II and III

Ans) a
Exp) Option a is the correct answer.
Statement I is correct: Personality rights safeguard an individual's name, likeness, image, voice, signature, and other distinctive traits from unauthorised commercial exploitation. Personality rights empower an individual to control their 'persona' (name, image, likeness, voice, or signature).
Statement II is correct: Personality rights are not codified in a single statute in India.
Statutory protection of personality rights is dispersed across intellectual property laws. The Copyright Act, 1957, grants performers both exclusive rights under Section 38A and moral rights under Section 38B, allowing them to control how their performances are reproduced and to object to any distortion or misuse. The Trade Marks Act, 1999, permits individuals, particularly celebrities, to register distinctive attributes of their persona, such as names, signatures, or even catchphrases, as trademarks. But these are not codified under a single statute.
Statement III is incorrect: There is no such Supreme Court judgement which says Personality rights are rooted in Article 19(1)(a) of the Indian Constitution. The critics of these rights argue too much protection of personality rights could stifle free expression. Article 19(1)(a) of the Constitution guarantees every citizen the right to freedom of speech, which includes the creative freedom to criticise, parody, or satirise public figures. But courts have affirmed that this right (Article 19(1)(a)) is not absolute and must be balanced against an individual's dignity and autonomy.
At the heart of personality rights lies the right to autonomy and privacy, which is rooted in Article 21 of the Constitution.

Q.3) A State government introduces a policy reserving a certain percentage of seats in higher educational institutions specifically for students from historically disadvantaged communities. The policy is challenged in court, but the court upholds it, stating that true equality requires addressing existing social and structural disadvantages rather than merely treating everyone identically.
Which one of the following principles is upheld in the above case?
a) Formal Equality
b) Procedural Equality
c) Substantive Equality
d) Natural Justice

Ans) c
Exp) Option c is the correct answer.
The situation reflects Substantive Equality, which goes beyond mere equal treatment and seeks to address historical and structural disadvantages through affirmative measures like reservations. It recognizes that identical treatment may perpetuate inequality, hence differential treatment is justified to achieve real equality. This principle recognizes that "treating equals equally and unequals unequally" is the only way to achieve real fairness. It acknowledges that individuals start from different positions due to historical, social, or economic disadvantages.
Formal Equality: This principle suggests that the law should treat everyone exactly the same, regardless of their background.
Procedural Equality: This focuses on the process. It does not concern itself with the social barriers that might prevent someone from entering the process in the first place.
Natural Justice: It refers to fundamental procedural principles ensuring fairness in decision-making, especially in administrative and judicial actions. It focuses on fair procedure, not on achieving social or distributive equality.

Q.4) 'The State has denied a woman to be appointed as a doctor in the Army Medical Institutes on account of pregnancy.' This would be a violation of which one of the following Fundamental Rights?
a) Article 16
b) Article 19
c) Article 18
d) Article 23

Ans) a
Exp) Option a is the correct answer
As per Article 16(1) of the Indian Constitution - There shall be equality of opportunity for all citizens in matters relating to employment or appointment to any office under the State.
Article 16 (2) of the Indian Constitution reads- No citizen shall, on grounds only of religion, race, caste, sex, descent, place of birth, residence or any of them, be ineligible for, or discriminated against in respect of, any employment or office under the State.
So in the above scenario, where the State has denied a woman to be appointed as a doctor in the Army Medical Institutes due to her pregnancy, is a violation of Article 16.

The Punjab and Haryana High Court held that denying appointment to the petitioner merely on account of her pregnancy is arbitrary and illegal and it is violative of the Articles 14 and 16 of the Constitution.

Q.5) Consider the following rights:
I. Right to vote
II. Right against the adverse effects of climate change
III. Access to safe, motorable and well-maintained roads
IV. Access to justice
As per various Supreme Court judgements/observations, which of the above are covered under Article 21 (Protection of life and Personal liberty) of the Constitution of India?
a) I and III only
b) II and IV only
c) II, III and IV only
d) I, II, III and IV

Ans) c
Exp) Option c is the correct answer.
Article 21 of the Indian Constitution guarantees that 'No person shall be deprived of his life or personal liberty except according to procedure established by law'. The Supreme Court of India has vastly expanded its scope, establishing that it covers not just physical existence but the right to live with dignity.
Option I is incorrect: Right to vote: It is not covered under Article 21 of the Indian Constitution.
The right to vote is recognized as a constitutional right under Article 326 of the Indian Constitution. It states that the elections to the Lok Sabha and the State Legislative Assemblies are based on adult suffrage i.e. every citizen of India aged 18 years or above, who is not disqualified on grounds such as non-residence, unsoundness of mind, crime, or corrupt practices, is entitled to be registered as a voter.
Option II is correct: In M.K. Ranjitsinh v. Union of India, the Court explicitly recognized the right to be free from adverse effects of climate change as part of Article 21.
Option III is correct: In Umri Pooph Pratappur (Upp) Tollways Pvt. Ltd. v. M.P. Road Development Corporation, the Supreme Court observed that access to safe, motorable and well-maintained roads is an essential part of the fundamental right to life i.e. Article 21 under the Constitution.
Option IV is correct: In Anita Kushwaha v. Pushap Sudan, the Court held that access to justice is a fundamental right under Articles 14 and 21.

Q.6) With reference to the Narco-analysis test in India, consider the following statements:
I. The result of a voluntary Narco test in itself would be sufficient to confirm the guilt of an individual in a court of law.

II. Conducting Narco tests without the consent of an individual constitutes a violation of Articles 20 and 21 of the Indian Constitution.
Which of the statements given above is/are correct?
a) I only
b) II only
c) Both I and II
d) Neither I nor II

Ans) b
Exp) Option b is the correct answer.
A narco test is a process of investigation during which it is expected that the accused, undergoing such a test, would express the concealed facts. He is sedated by administering a certain class of substances, such as barbiturates, for instance, Sodium Pentothal, to reduce a subject's inhibitions and reasoning ability. It is a non-violent method similar to those called polygraphs or brain mapping.
The legal validity and procedural requirements of narco-analysis, polygraph, and brain mapping tests in India were settled by the Supreme Court in the landmark case of Selvi v. State of Karnataka (2010).
Statement I is incorrect: Even when a narco-analysis test is conducted voluntarily, the statements made during the test are not considered reliable evidence. In Selvi v. State of Karnataka (2010), the Supreme Court observed that responses given under the influence of such techniques occur in an altered mental state and therefore lack conscious control and reliability. As a result, these statements cannot be directly admitted as evidence in a court of law. At best, they may be used only to obtain investigative leads.
In Manoj Kumar Saini v. State of MP (2023) and Vinobhai v. State of Kerala (2025), the Supreme Court held that the results of a narco test do not confirm guilt. Although information obtained from the test might contribute to the investigation, it must be corroborated with other evidence.
Statement II is correct: In Selvi v. State of Karnataka (2010), the Supreme Court held that no individual can be subjected to narco-analysis without their consent. The Court emphasized that the involuntary administration of such techniques violates the right against self-incrimination under Article 20(3) as well as the right to personal liberty and privacy under Article 21.
Clause (3) of Article 20 of the Constitution provides for the protection against self-incrimination, meaning that no person accused of any offence shall be compelled to be a witness against himself. Here, in the case of an involuntary narco test, the individual is being compelled to be a witness against himself.
Article 21 incorporates the phrase 'procedure established by law' which signifies that the procedure provided by law shall be fair. All procedural safeguards shall be taken care of before conducting any such non-invasive tests. The principle underlying informed consent is individual autonomy, which is associated with the concept of natural justice; thus, an involuntary narco test would be a violation of Article 21.

Q.7) In Indian jurisprudence, the 'Hicklin Test' is a legal standard primarily used by the courts for which of the following purposes?
a) To determine the constitutionality of preventive detention orders.
b) To assess whether a publication or content is obscene in nature.
c) To evaluate the 'creamy layer' status among Other Backward Classes.
d) To test the validity of a proclamation of Emergency under Article 352.

Ans) b
Exp) Option b is the correct answer.

The Hicklin Test is a legal standard that was historically used by Indian courts to determine whether a particular piece of content or publication is obscene.

Origin: The test originated from the English case Regina v. Hicklin (1868). It defined obscenity based on whether the matter has a tendency to "deprave and corrupt those whose minds are open to such immoral influences" and into whose hands such a publication might fall.

Application in India: For decades, the Indian judiciary relied on this test, most notably in the landmark case of Ranjit D. Udeshi v. State of Maharashtra (1964), involving the book Lady Chatterley's Lover.

Shift to "Community Standards": In recent years, the Supreme Court of India has moved away from the Hicklin Test, viewing it as too narrow and outdated. In the Aveek Sarkar v. State of West Bengal (2014) case, the Court officially replaced the Hicklin Test with the "Community Standards Test." This newer test evaluates whether a work, taken as a whole, appeals to the prurient interest of an average person applying contemporary community standards, rather than focusing on the impact on the most vulnerable or "susceptible" minds.

Q.8) With reference to the grounds of reasonable restrictions on the Right to Freedom of Speech and Expression under Article 19(2) of the Constitution of India, consider the following:
I. Sovereignty and Integrity of India
II. Public Order
III. Defamation
IV. Decency or morality
How many of the above were part of the original Constitution i.e. when it was enforced on 26 January 1950?
a) Only one
b) Only two
c) Only three
d) None

Ans) b
Exp) Option b is the correct answer.
Article 19(1)(a) of the Constitution guarantees the Right to Freedom of Speech and Expression, but this right is not absolute. It is subject to reasonable restrictions under Article 19(2) to balance individual liberty with societal interests.
Reasonable restrictions under Article 19(2) are:
1. Sovereignty and integrity of India (added by the 16th Amendment Act, 1963).
2. Security of the State.
3. friendly relations with foreign states (added by the 1st Amendment Act, 1951).

Q.9) Consider the following statements
I. The Supreme Court of India has held that the right to die with dignity is an inherent part of Article 21 of the Indian Constitution.
II. Assisted dying to terminally ill patients, which involves intentionally causing death through the administration of a lethal injection, attracts criminal liability and may amount to culpable homicide in India.
III. To date, there has been only one instance where a judicial approval by the Supreme Court of India has been granted for passive euthanasia.
Which of the statements given above are correct?
a) II and III only
b) I and II only
c) I and III only
d) I, II and III

Ans) d
Exp) Option d is the correct answer.
The legal framework for euthanasia in India has been shaped by landmark Supreme Court judgments that balance the right to life with the right to die with dignity.
Statement I is correct: Passive euthanasia, which involves the withdrawal or withholding of medical treatment (like ventilators or feeding tubes) to allow a terminally ill patient to die in the natural course, was formally legalized by the Supreme Court in the Common Cause v. Union of India (2018) case. The Court ruled that the "right to die with dignity" is a fundamental right under Article 21.
Statement II is correct: Passive euthanasia involves a negative act or an omission, such as withdrawing or withholding life support, while active euthanasia is an intrusion or positive act, such as administering a lethal injection. Active euthanasia is currently illegal in India.
Assisted dying involves intentionally causing death through the administration of a lethal injection.In India, this directly attracts criminal liability and may amount to culpable homicide under the Bharatiya Nyaya Sanhita.
Statement III is correct: On March 11, 2026 in India's first judicial approval of passive euthanasia, the Supreme Court allowed the withdrawal of life support for Harish Rana, 32, who had been in a vegetative state for nearly 13 years following a fall.
Thus, to date there has been only one instance where a judicial approval by the Supreme Court of India has been granted for passive euthanasia.

Q.11) Which one of the following reflects the most appropriate relationship between law and liberty?
a) If there are more laws, there is less liberty.
b) If there are no laws, there is no liberty.
c) If there is liberty, laws have to be made by the people.
d) If laws are changed too often, liberty is in danger.

Ans) b

Exp) Option b is the correct answer.

John Locke said "Where there is no law, there is no freedom…" Liberty is protected by law, 'liberty' means absence of restraints on the activities of individuals, and at the same time, providing opportunities for the development of individuals. Law promotes liberty. The more law there is, the more liberty there is. And as soon as law ends, liberty also ceases to exist. Where there are no laws to protect or provide freedom and liberty, violations of the same take place. Law protects liberty in several ways. Firstly, the law helps in establishing a civilized society, thereby easing the way of life for individuals. This is done by the creation of a provision for punishment to the criminals. Secondly, it guarantees rights and duties to the citizens and individuals. The state intervenes whenever the rights of an individual are violated by another. Thirdly, the constitution acts as the custodian of liberty. It is the constitution that provides the authority of the state and protects the fundamental rights of the people.

Q.12) Recently, the Supreme Court of India constituted the Justice Asha Menon Committee, which is related to:
a) Preventive detention laws in India.
b) Essential Religious Practices
c) Reforms in the criminal justice system.
d) Transgender rights.

Ans) d

Exp) Option d is the correct answer.

The Justice Asha Menon Committee was constituted by the Supreme Court to formulate a practical policy draft and prepare a report for the Union Government to strengthen transgender rights and ensure effective implementation of the 2019 Act. It was also expected to address gaps between legislative intent and ground realities, and to further the transgender rights discourse in line with constitutional principles laid down in the NALSA judgment. Recently, the committee sent a resolution to the Government of India, requesting that the Transgender Persons (Protection of Rights) Amendment Bill, 2026,be withdrawn.

Q.13) Consider the following statements:
Statement I: The Supreme Court recently ruled that adoptive mothers could avail 12 weeks of paid maternity leave regardless of the age of their children at the time of adoption.
Statement II: Article 42 of the Constitution of India directs the State to make provision for securing just and humane conditions of work and for maternity relief.
Which one of the following is correct in respect of the above statements?
a) Both Statement I and Statement II are correct and Statement II explains Statement I
b) Both Statement I and Statement II are correct, but Statement II does not explain Statement I
c) Statement I is correct, but Statement II is not correct
d) Statement I is not correct, but Statement II is correct

Ans) b
Exp) Option b is the correct answer.
Statement I is correct. The Supreme Court recently ruled that adoptive mothers could avail themselves of 12 weeks of paid maternity leave regardless of the age of their children at the time of adoption. It struck down Section 60(4) of the Social Security Code, 2020, which limited this benefit only to mothers who adopted children under the age of three months, the Court said that an adoptive mother had the same rights and obligations towards the child as a biological mother.
Statement II is correct. Article 42 of the Constitution of India directs the State to make provisions for safe and humane working conditions, and maternity relief as part of the Directive Principles of State Policy. This provision forms the constitutional foundation for maternity-related welfare legislation.
Statement II is not the correct explanation for statement I. In Hamsaanandini Nanduri v. Union of India, the Supreme Court ruled that Section 60(4) of the Social Security Code, 2020 violated Articles 14 and 21 of the Constitution, which guarantee equality and the right to life.
Thus the reasoning behind striking down Section 60(4) of the Social Security Code, 2020 was that it was a violation of Article 14 and 21. Article 42 simply directs the state to make provisions for maternity relief which was there but it was in violation of Article 14 and 21.

Q.14) With reference to Fundamental Rights under the Indian Constitution, consider the following information:

Fundamental Rights under	Available against the arbitrary action/inaction of	Available to
I. Article 14	State only	Citizens only

II. Article 17	Both the State and private individuals	Both Citizens and foreigners (except enemy aliens)
III. Article 23	Both the State and private individuals	Citizens only

In which of the above rows is the given information correctly matched?
a) Only one
b) Only two
c) All the three
d) None

Ans) a
Exp) Option a is the correct answer.
Row I is incorrect. Article 14 of the Constitution of India guarantees equality before law and equal protection of laws. The former, derived from British jurisprudence, is a negative concept, implying absence of special privileges and equal subjection to ordinary law. The latter, inspired by the American Constitution, is a positive concept, ensuring equal treatment under similar circumstances. It is enforceable only against the arbitrary action of the State.
Article 14 is available to both citizens and foreigners (except enemy aliens).
Row II is correct. Article 17 of the Constitution of India abolishes untouchability and forbids its practice in any form. It is negative in nature, but importantly, it is enforceable against the arbitrary action of both State and private individuals.
Article 17 is available to both citizens and foreigners (except enemy aliens).
Row III is incorrect. Article 23 of the Constitution of India prohibits human trafficking, begar, and forced labour. While it is enforceable against both the State and private individuals, it is negative in nature because it prohibits certain practices rather than mandating a positive obligation.
Article 23 is available to both citizens and foreigners (except enemy aliens).

Q.15) With reference to the provision as to financial emergency under Article 360 of the Constitution of India, consider the following statements:
I. A proclamation issued under it by the President shall cease to operate if not approved by both the Houses of Parliament within a period of 1 month.
II. During its operation, the President may direct that all money bills passed by State Legislatures shall be reserved for his/her consideration.
III. A proclamation issued under it, once approved by Parliament, continues indefinitely unless revoked.
IV. During its operation, the President may issue directions reducing the salaries and allowances of persons serving in connection with the affairs of a State.
Which of the statements given above is/are correct?
a) III only
b) II and IV only
c) II, III and IV only
d) I, II, III and IV

Ans) c
Exp) Option c is the correct answer.

Financial Emergency is provided under Article 360 in Part XVIII of the Constitution. It is proclaimed by the President of India when he is satisfied that the financial stability or credit of India or any part of its territory is threatened.

Statement I is incorrect: As per Article 360(2)(c), a Financial Emergency must be approved by both Houses of Parliament by a simple majority within two months (not 1 month). If not approved within this period, it ceases to operate.

Article 360(2)(c) reads as- A Proclamation issued under financial emergency shall cease to operate at the expiration of two months, unless before the expiration of that period it has been approved by resolutions of both Houses of Parliament

Statement II is correct: Under Article 360(4)(a)(ii), the President can direct that all Money Bills and certain other financial bills passed by State Legislatures must be sent to him for approval after they are passed.

Statement III is correct: Once approved, the Constitution does not prescribe any maximum time limit for its continuation. It continues indefinitely until it is revoked by the President (Article 360(2)(a)).

Statement IV is correct: Under Article 360(4)(a)(i), the President can direct reduction of salaries and allowances of persons serving in connection with State affairs.

Q.16) With reference to the Preventive Detention in India, consider the following statements:
I. It allows the State to detain a person without trial, based on the anticipation of a threat to public order or national security.
II. The person arrested and detained in custody under Preventive detention cannot claim bail on the grounds that he/she has been in custody for more than twenty-four hours without an order from the Magistrate.
III. The Constitutional safeguards for persons detained under preventive detention laws are available only to the citizens of India.
Which of the statements given above is/are correct?
a) I and II only
b) II and III only
c) I only
d) I, II and III

Ans) a
Exp) Option a is the correct answer.

Statement I is correct: Detention is of two types, namely, punitive and preventive. Punitive detention is to punish a person for an offence committed by him after trial and conviction in a court. Preventive detention, on the other hand, means detention of a person without trial and conviction by a court. Its purpose is not to punish a person for a past offence but to prevent him from committing an offence in the near future. Thus, preventive detention allows the state to detain a person without trial based on the anticipation of a threat to public order or national security.

Statement II is correct: As per Article 22 (2) of the Indian Constitution - Every person who is arrested and detained in custody shall be produced before the nearest magistrate within a period of twenty-four hours of such arrest excluding the time necessary for the journey from the place of arrest to the court of the magistrate and no such person shall be detained in custody beyond the said period without the authority of a magistrate.

But this constitutional safeguard is not applicable in the case of Preventive detention and Article 22(5) simply says that 'communicate to such a person detained under Preventive detention the grounds on which the order has been made and shall afford him the earliest opportunity of making a representation against the order.'

Preventive detention is not a regular criminal proceeding; as no trial is there, so traditional provisions of bail are not applicable and one detained under preventive detention cannot claim bail on the grounds that he/she has been in prison for more than twenty-four hours without an order from the magistrate.

Statement III is incorrect: Article 22 of the Constitution of India provides safeguards against arrest and detention. This protection is available to both citizens and non-citizens. It includes: (i) The detention of a person cannot exceed three months unless the advisory board reports sufficient cause for extended detention. The board is to consist of judges of a high court. (ii) The grounds of detention should be communicated to the detenu. However, the facts considered to be against the public interests need not be disclosed. (iii) The detenu should be afforded an opportunity to make representation against the detention order.

Q.17) Consider the following pairs with reference to amendments to Article 15 of the Constitution of India:

Amendment	Key Provision
I. 1st Constitutional Amendment, 1951	Enabled the State to make special provisions for the advancement of Socially and Educationally Backward Classes or for the Scheduled Castes and Scheduled Tribes.
II. 93rd Constitutional Amendment, 2005	Empowered the State to provide reservations for Socially and Educationally Backward Classes or for Scheduled Castes or Scheduled Tribes in private educational institutions other than the minority educational institutions.
III. 103rd Constitutional Amendment, 2019	Enabled the state to provide up to 10% reservation for Economically Weaker Sections (EWS) of citizens who are not covered under any other existing reservations in private educational institutions other than the minority educational institutions.

How many pairs given above are correctly matched?
a) Only one
b) Only two
c) All the three
d) None

Ans) c
Exp) Option c is the correct answer.
Pair I is correct: The State of Madras vs Champakam Dorairajan (1951) case struck down caste-based reservations in education as violative of Article 15(1). To overcome this, the Constitution (First Amendment) Act, 1951 inserted Article 15(4), enabling the State to make special provisions for the advancement of Socially and Educationally Backward Classes, Scheduled Castes and Scheduled Tribes.
Pair II is correct: The T.M.A. Pai Foundation vs State of Karnataka (2002) and subsequent judgments like P.A. Inamdar vs State of Maharashtra (2005) held that the State cannot impose reservation policies on private unaided educational institutions. To address this limitation, the Constitution (Ninety-Third Amendment) Act, 2005 inserted Article 15(5), enabling the State to provide reservation for socially and educationally backward classes, SCs, and STs in both aided and unaided private educational institutions (except minority institutions).
Pair III is correct: The Indra Sawhney vs Union of India (1992) judgment had clearly held that reservation under Article 16(4) is meant for socially and educationally backward classes, and that economic criteria alone cannot be the sole basis for reservation. To address this gap, the Constitution (One Hundred and Third Amendment) Act, 2019 was enacted. It inserted:

- Article 15(6) – enabling the State to provide reservation up to 10% in educational institutions (including private, except minority institutions) for EWS.
- Article 16(6) – enabling reservation in public employment for EWS.

Q.18) Consider the following statements:
The State shall take steps:
I. To secure for the citizens a uniform civil code throughout the territory of India.
II. To safeguard public property and to abjure violence.
III. To separate the judiciary from the executive in the public services of the State.
IV. To promote the spread of the Hindi language, to develop it so that it may serve as a medium of expression for all the elements of the composite culture of India
Which of the statements given above are mentioned in Part IV of the Indian Constitution i.e., Directive Principles of State Policy (DPSP)?
a) II and IV only
b) I, II and III
c) I, III and IV
d) I and III only

Ans) d
Exp) Option d is the correct answer.
The Directive Principles of State Policy (DPSP) are enumerated in Part IV of the Constitution from Articles 36 to 51. While the Constitution contains several directives, not all of them are located within Part IV.
Statement I is correct: Article 44 (under Part IV) i.e. Uniform civil code for the citizens.–The State shall endeavour to secure for the citizens a uniform civil code throughout the territory of India.
Statement II is incorrect: To safeguard public property and to abjure violence is a Fundamental Duty mentioned in Part IV-A under Article 51A(i). It is not a Directive Principle for the State, but a duty for the citizens.
Statement III is correct: Article 50 (under Part IV) directs the State to take steps to separate the judiciary from the executive in the public services of the State to ensure judicial independence.
Statement IV is incorrect: While the promotion of the Hindi language is a directive to the Union, it is mentioned in Article 351, which is located in Part XVII (Official Language), not Part IV. Directives found outside Part IV are known as "Directives in other Parts of the Constitution."

Q.19) With reference to the right to assemble peaceably and without arms, under the Constitution of India, consider the following statements:
I. This freedom can be exercised only on one's own private land.

Which of the statements given above is/are correct?
a) I only
b) II only
c) Both I and II

d) Neither I nor II

Ans) b
Exp) Option b is the correct answer.
Statement I is incorrect: Article 19(1)(b) provides that every citizen has the right to assemble peaceably and without arms. This includes the right to hold public meetings, organize demonstrations, and take out processions as part of democratic expression. This freedom can be exercised only on public land. However, assembly may also take place on private land but with the owner's consent. Thus, this freedom can be exercised in public land and with the owner's assent in private land.
Statement II is correct: Under Article 19(3), the State may impose reasonable restrictions on this right in the interests of the sovereignty and integrity of India or public order only.

Q.20) Consider the following statements:
Statement I: The Kharai camel is native to the Sundarbans mangrove region along the coasts of West Bengal.
Statement II: Kharai camels feed on mangrove vegetation and are capable of surviving in coastal and marshy habitats.
Which one of the following is correct in respect of the above statements?
a) Both Statement I and Statement II are correct and Statement II explains Statement I
b) Both Statement I and Statement II are correct but Statement II does not explain Statement I
c) Statement I is correct but Statement II is not correct
d) Statement I is not correct but Statement II is correct

Ans) d
Exp) Option d is the correct answer.
Statement I is incorrect: The Kharai camel is not native to the Sundarbans mangrove region of West Bengal.
Instead, it is native to the Kutch region of Gujarat, particularly the coastal and island areas near the Gulf of Kutch. This region provides the unique ecological conditions: saline waters, mangrove islands, and tidal zones, that support the evolution of the Kharai camel's distinct swimming and foraging abilities. The Sundarbans, though rich in mangroves, has no native Kharai camel population and is not associated with this breed.
Statement II is correct: Kharai camels are specially adapted to feed on saline mangrove vegetation and can survive in coastal and marshy habitats. They can swim 3–5 km in seawater to reach isolated mangrove islands for grazing, a characteristic that makes them unique among camel breeds. These adaptations are well-documented in the coastal ecology of Kutch.
Therefore, Statement I is not correct but Statement II is correct.

Q.21) Which of the following are provided in India by the Right to Education Act?
1. Right of children to free and compulsory education till completion of elementary education in a neighborhood school.
2. Prohibition of deployment of teachers for non-educational works, other than decennial census, elections to local authority like State Legislatures, Parliament and disaster relief.
3. Right of minorities to establish and administer education institutions.
4. No citizen shall be denied admission into any educational institution maintained by the State or receiving aid out of State funds on grounds only of religion, race, caste, language or any of them.

Select the correct answer using the code given below.
a) 1, 2 and 4
b) 1 and 3 only
c) 2 and 4 only
d) 1 and 2 only

Ans) d
Exp) Option d is the correct answer.
Statement 1 is correct: The Right to Education Act guarantees the right of children to receive free and compulsory education until the completion of elementary education. It emphasizes the importance of providing education to all children and ensures that they have access to education in their neighborhood.
Statement 2 is correct: The Act prohibits the deployment of teachers for non-educational works, except for specific purposes such as the decennial census, elections, and disaster relief. This provision aims to ensure that teachers are focused on their primary role of imparting education.
Statement 3 is incorrect: The Right to Education Act does not specifically provide for the right of minorities to establish and administer educational institutions. This provision is covered under Article 30 of the Constitution of India, which guarantees the right of minorities to establish and administer educational institutions of their choice.
Statement 4 is incorrect: Article 29(2) of the Constitution of India and not RTE Act prohibits discrimination on grounds of religion, race, caste, language or any of them in admission to educational institutions.

Q.22) With reference to Fundamental Duties in the Indian Constitution, consider the following statements:
I. They resemble the Instrument of Instructions of the Government of India Act, 1935.
II. They serve as moral and civic responsibilities for every citizen.
III. They are justiciable through a Writ.
Which of the statements given above is/are correct?
a) II only
b) I and II
c) II and III
d) III only

Ans) a
Exp) Option a is the correct answer.
Fundamental Duties, enshrined in Article 51A of the Indian Constitution, are moral obligations for citizens. They promote patriotism, uphold unity, and foster respect for the nation's heritage and values.
Statement I is incorrect: The DPSPs in Part IV of the Indian Constitution are inspired by the Instrument of Instructions included in the Government of India Act, 1935.
Part IV A of the Indian Constitution, which is the Fundamental Duties, is inspired by the Constitution of the Soviet Union (USSR).
Statement II is correct: Fundamental Duties serve as moral and civic responsibilities for every citizen. A culture that emphasizes these duties alongside fundamental rights encourages law-abiding behaviour, mutual respect among communities, and greater participation in democratic processes. Such an approach complements the rights-based framework of the Constitution by promoting a balanced and responsible citizenship.
Statement III is incorrect: Fundamental duties are non-justiciable, which means that a court cannot punish a citizen for violating a fundamental duty. However, Parliament can enforce them by suitable laws. For example, Parliament can stipulate the imposition of fines or other punishment for failure to comply with any of the Fundamental Duties.
Thus, they cannot be enforced by Writs.

Q.23) A foreign national, while attempting to enter a specific State within the territory of India, is arbitrarily stopped by the local authorities. He is subsequently arrested and detained without being informed of the grounds for such arrest. Furthermore, he is denied the opportunity to consult or be defended by a legal practitioner of his/her choice.
In the above situation, the fundamental rights guaranteed under which of the following Articles of the Indian Constitution is/are violated?
I. Article 20
II. Article 19
III. Article 22
Select the correct answer using the code given below:
a) I only
b) III only
c) I and II
d) II and III

Ans) b
Exp) Option b is the correct answer.
Option I is incorrect: Article 20 of the Indian Constitution guarantees Protection in respect of conviction for offences, so it is not applicable in above scenario as there is no offence communicated in the above scenario.
Option II is incorrect: Article 19 guarantees the freedom of movement throughout the territory of India, but this right is available only to Indian citizens. Therefore, a foreign national cannot claim protection under Article 19, and the act of stopping him from entering a State does not amount to a violation of this Article.
Option III is correct: Article 22 applies to all persons, whether citizens or non-citizens, and specifically deals with safeguards in cases of arrest and detention. The Article recognizes two situations under which arrest may occur:
- Under ordinary law, and
- Under laws providing for preventive detention

In both situations, Article 22 mandates that the person arrested must be informed of the grounds of arrest. Failure to do so constitutes a clear violation of this provision.
Article 22 further provides that every person who is arrested shall have the right to consult and be defended by a legal practitioner of his choice. Denial of this right directly violates the constitutional safeguard guaranteed under this Article.

Q.24) With reference to Article 13 of the Constitution of India, which of the following are included within the term 'law'?
I. A rule framed by a government department under a parent Act.
II. A long-standing social custom having the force of law.
III. Service rules framed by a Public Sector Undertaking (PSU) under statutory authority.
IV. A Constitutional Amendment under Article 368
Select the correct answer using the code given below:
a) I, II and III only
b) I and II only
c) III and IV only
d) I, II, III and IV

Ans) a

Exp) Option a is the correct answer.

Article 13 of the Constitution of India gives a wide meaning to the term "law" and provides the foundation for judicial review in India. It declares that any law inconsistent with Fundamental Rights shall be void.

Option I is correct. A rule framed by a government department under a parent Act is a form of delegated legislation. Article 13 explicitly includes such statutory instruments like rules, regulations, bye-laws, and notifications within the definition of law. Therefore, if such a rule violates Fundamental Rights, it can be directly challenged in court and declared void.

Option II is correct. A long-standing social custom having the force of law is also included within the scope of law under Article 13. The Constitution recognizes that customs and usages, if they have legal force, can affect rights and obligations. Therefore, such customs can be tested against Fundamental Rights and struck down if inconsistent.

Option III is correct. Service rules framed by a Public Sector Undertaking (PSU) under statutory authority derive their validity from law and fall under delegated or subordinate legislation. Since they are backed by statutory power and affect legal rights, they are considered law under Article 13 and can be challenged if they violate Fundamental Rights.

Option IV is incorrect. Article 13 declares that a constitutional amendment is not a law and hence cannot be challenged. However, the Supreme Court held in the Kesavananda Bharati case (1973) that a Constitutional amendment can be challenged on the ground that it violates a fundamental right that forms a part of the 'basic structure' of the Constitution and hence, can be declared as void.

Q.25) What is the position of the right to property in India?

a) Legal right available to citizens only

b) Legal right available to any person

c) Fundamental Right available to citizens only

d) Neither Fundamental Right nor legal Right

Ans) b

Exp) Option b is the correct answer.

The Right to Property is a legal right available to any person. Article 300-A provides that no person shall be deprived of his property save by authority of law. Right to Property was a Fundamental Right in the original constitution under Article 31, which provided that the Constitution not only guarantees the right of private ownership but also the right to enjoy and dispose of property free from restrictions other than reasonable restriction. It is also mentioned that compensation would be paid to a person whose property has been taken for public purposes.

The Constitution (Forty-fourth Amendment) Act, 1978 deleted the right to property from the Fundamental Rights. The Amendment omitted Article 31 and Article 19 (1) (f) and inserted in their place Article 300-A.

Q.26) With reference to the Constitution of India, the provision "to renounce practices derogatory to the dignity of women" is incorporated under:

a) Fundamental Rights

b) Fundamental Duties

c) Directive Principles of State Policy

d) Special Provisions related to certain Classes

Ans) b

Exp) Option b is the correct answer.

Option b is correct: The phrase "to renounce practices derogatory to the dignity of women" is explicitly mentioned in Article 51A(e). Since Article 51A falls under Fundamental Duties, this provision is clearly classified as a Fundamental Duty. Fundamental Duties were added to the Constitution by the Constitution (Forty-Second Amendment) Act, 1976 on the recommendation of the Swaran Singh Committee. They are contained in Part IVA (Article 51A) of the Constitution and are meant to remind citizens of their moral obligations towards the nation and society.

Article 51A(e) states that it shall be the duty of every citizen of India: "to promote harmony and the spirit of common brotherhood amongst all the people of India transcending religious, linguistic and regional or sectional diversities; to renounce practices derogatory to the dignity of women."

Q.28) With reference to the Proclamation of Emergency under Article 352 of the Constitution of India, popularly known as the National Emergency, consider the following statements:

I. The President can proclaim it only on the written recommendation of the Union Cabinet.

II. The President must revoke such a proclamation if a resolution disapproving of its continuation is passed by a majority of the total members present and voting in the Lok Sabha.
III. It can be extended indefinitely, provided both the houses of Parliament approve its continuation every six months.
IV. It has been proclaimed three times in India so far.
Which of the statements given above are correct?
a) I and IV only
b) II and III only
c) I, III and IV only
d) I, II, III and IV

Ans) d
Exp) Option d is the correct answer.
The Emergency provisions are contained in Part XVIII (Articles 352 to 360) of the Constitution of India. Article 352 specifically deals with the Proclamation of National Emergency on the grounds of war, external aggression, or armed rebellion.
Statement I is correct: Earlier the Constitution did not require the President to act only on the written advice of the Union Cabinet. However, the Present Provision inserted by the Constitution (Forty-Fourth Amendment) Act, 1978 inserted a safeguard in Article 352(3): The President can proclaim a National Emergency only after receiving a written recommendation of the Union Cabinet (not merely the Prime Minister).
Statement II is correct: A National Emergency can be revoked in two ways:
- Under Article 352(2), the President may revoke the proclamation by issuing another proclamation.
- If the Lok Sabha passes a resolution by simple majority disapproving the Emergency, the President is constitutionally bound to revoke it. It creates a binding constitutional obligation on the President to revoke it.

Statement III is correct: As per Article 352(4), the proclamation must be approved by both Houses of Parliament within 1 month. Approval requires a special majority: by majority of total membership, and Not less than two-thirds of members present and voting. Once approved, the Emergency remains in force for 6 months. It can be extended indefinitely, provided Parliament approves it every 6 months by the same special majority under Article 352(5).
Statement IV is correct: A National Emergency has been proclaimed three times in India:
- 1962 – On grounds of external aggression (India-China war).
- 1971 – On grounds of external aggression (India-Pakistan war)
- 1975 – On grounds of internal disturbance (later replaced by "armed rebellion" by the 44th Amendment).

Q.29) In which of the following cases, the Supreme Court ruled that Parliament had no power to amend Fundamental Rights for the purpose of enforcing Directive Principles of State Policy?
a) R C Cooper vs Union of India, 1970
b) Sajjan Singh vs State of Rajasthan, 1964
c) I. C. Golaknath vs State of Punjab, 1967
d) The State of Madras vs Srimathi Champakam Dorairajanand, 1951

Ans) c
Exp) Option c is the correct answer.
In the I.C. Golaknath v. State of Punjab (1967) case, a special bench of 11 judges ruled that Fundamental Rights are given a "transcendental and immutable" position by the Constitution. Therefore, Parliament does not have the power to abridge or take away any of the Fundamental Rights through a Constitutional Amendment, even if the objective is to implement Directive Principles. This judgment effectively "froze" the Fundamental Rights.

Which of the statements given above are correct?
a) I, II and III

Q.36) Which of the following statements is/are correct with reference to Article 32 of the Indian Constitution?
I. The Supreme Court shall have the power to issue a writ under this Article only in case of violation of the Fundamental Rights.
II. Parliament may by law empower any other court to issue a writ under this Article within the local limits of its jurisdiction.
III. Dr B. R. Ambedkar referred to this Article as the heart and soul of the Constitution.
Select the correct answer using the code given below:
a) II only
b) I and III only
c) III only
d) I, II and III

Ans) d
Exp) Option d is the correct answer.
Article 32 deals with the 'Right to Constitutional Remedies', or affirms the right to move the Supreme Court by appropriate proceedings for the enforcement of the rights conferred in Part III of the Constitution.
Statement I is correct: Article 32 guarantees the right to a constitutional remedy and relates only to the enforcement of the rights conferred by Part III of the Constitution. Unless a question of the enforcement of a fundamental right arises, Article 32 does not apply. Thus, Article 32 cannot be invoked simply to adjudge the validity of any legislation or an administrative action unless it adversely affects petitioner's Fundamental Rights.
Statement II is correct: Article 32(3) of the Indian Constitution allows Parliament to empower lower courts to issue writs like habeas corpus, mandamus, prohibition, quo warranto, and certiorari for enforcing fundamental rights within their local jurisdiction.
Statement III is correct: Dr. B.R. Ambedkar referred to Article 32 as 'An article without which this constitution would be a nullity. It is the very soul of the constitution and the very heart of it.'
Knowledge Base:

Q.37) With reference to the provisions of Martial Law under Article 34 of the Indian Constitution, consider the following statements:
I. Proclamation of Martial Law is subject to the same procedural safeguards and parliamentary approval as a proclamation of emergency under Article 352 of the Indian Constitution.
II. The Constitution explicitly does not specify any conditions for imposing Martial Law.
Which of the statements given above is/are correct?
a) I only
b) II only
c) Both I and II
d) Neither I nor II

Ans) b
Exp) Option b is the correct answer.
Statement I is incorrect: Unlike a National Emergency (Article 352), there is no specific procedure or mandatory parliamentary approval process laid down in the Constitution for the proclamation of Martial Law. There is also no specific or express provision in the Constitution that authorises the executive to declare martial law. However, it is implicit in Article 34 under which martial law can be declared in any area within the territory of India. The martial law is imposed under extraordinary circumstances like war, invasion, insurrection, rebellion, riot or any violent resistance to law.
Statement II is correct: The Constitution does not specify explicit grounds or conditions for the imposition of Martial Law. The expression 'martial law' has not been defined anywhere in the Constitution.
Knowledge Base:
As per Article 34 of the Indian Constitution, Parliament may by law indemnify any person in the service of the Union or of a State or any other person in respect of any act done by him in connection with the maintenance or restoration of order in any area within the territory of India where martial law was in force or validate any sentence passed, punishment inflicted, forfeiture ordered or other act done under martial law in such area.

Q.38) In the context of the Constitution of India, consider the following directives:
The State shall direct its policy towards securing:
I. that the operation of the economic system does not result in the concentration of wealth and means of production to the common detriment.
II. that the citizens, men and women equally, have the right to an adequate means of livelihood,
III. that children are given opportunities and facilities to develop in a healthy manner and in conditions of freedom and dignity and that childhood and youth are protected against exploitation and against moral and material abandonment.
Which of the above directive(s) can be implemented by the State even if they violate Articles 14 and 19 of the Constitution of India?
a) I and III
b) I only
c) I and II

d) III only

Ans) b

Exp) Option b is the correct answer.

Article 31C protects laws implementing Article 39(b) (equitable distribution of material resources) and Article 39(c) (prevention of concentration of wealth), ensuring such laws cannot be struck down for violating Articles 14 or 19.

Statement I is correct: Article 39(c) of the Constitution reads 'the State shall direct its policy towards securing that the operation of the economic system does not result in the concentration of wealth and means of production to the common detriment.'

The state can make laws under Article 39(c) even if they violate Article 14 and 19 of the Indian Constitution.

Statement II is incorrect: Article 39(a) of the Constitution reads ' the State shall direct its policy towards securing that the citizens, men and women equally, have the right to an adequate means of livelihood.'

Article 14, 19 and other Fundamental rights are given precedence over implementation of Article 39(a) if it violates any of the Fundamental rights.

Statement III is incorrect: Article 39(f) of the Constitution reads 'the State shall direct its policy towards securing that children are given opportunities and facilities to develop in a healthy manner and in conditions of freedom and dignity and that childhood and youth are protected against exploitation and against moral and material abandonment.'

Article 14, 19 and other Fundamental rights are given precedence over implementation of Article 39(f) if it violates any of the Fundamental rights.

Therefore, in the event of a conflict between Fundamental Rights and DPSPs, the current hierarchy is - 'FR except Article 14 and 19' >> 'DPSP Article 39(b) and 39(c)' >> 'FR Articles 14 and 19' >> 'DPSPs except Article 39(b) and 39(c)'.Despite the established judicial hierarchy

a) I only

b) I and III only

c) II and III only

d) I, II and III

Ans) b

Exp) Option b is the correct answer.

Option I is correct: Fundamental Duties were introduced into the Constitution by the Constitution (Forty-Second Amendment) Act, 1976. They were incorporated in Part IV-A under Article 51A, based on the recommendations of the Swaran Singh Committee.

The idea of Fundamental Duties was inspired by the Constitution of the Soviet Union, which emphasized the duties of citizens alongside their rights.

Q.41) Which Article of the Constitution of India safeguards one's right to marry the person of one's choice?

a) Article 19

b) Article 21

c) Article 25

d) Article 29

Ans) b

Exp) Option b is the correct answer.

Article 21 of the Constitution of India safeguards one's right to marry the person of one's choice.
In 2014, the Supreme Court took suo-motu cognizance of newspaper reports of the gang rape of a 20-year-old Indian woman on the orders of a village court. In this case, Supreme Court held that "an inherent aspect of Article 21 of the Constitution would be the freedom of choice in marriage". This was reiterated by Supreme court in 2017. The choice of a partner whether within or outside marriage lies within the exclusive domain of each individual. Intimacies of marriage lie within a core zone of privacy, which is inviolable. The absolute right of an individual to choose a life partner is not in the least affected by matters of faith. The Constitution guarantees to each individual the right freely to practise, profess and propagate religion.

The above statement is most closely associated with which one among the following personality?
a) Dr. B.R. Ambedkar
b) Mahatma Gandhi
c) Dr. Rajendra Prasad
d) Sardar Vallabhbhai Patel

Gandhi's Philosophy: Mahatma Gandhi believed that rights do not exist in a vacuum; they are the result of duties well-performed. He famously stated, "The true source of right is duty. This Gandhian thought heavily influenced the inclusion of Fundamental Duties (Part IV-A) in the Indian Constitution later on (via the 42nd Amendment, 1976).

Q.43) In the context of Indian polity, consider the following statements about the creamy layer:
I. At present, the principle of creamy layer does not apply to reservations for Scheduled Castes (SCs) and Scheduled Tribes (STs).
II. The Creamy layers amongst the backward classes of citizens are determined only by the income criteria.
Which of the statements given above is/are correct?
a) I only
b) II only
c) Both I and II
d) Neither I nor II

Ans) a
Exp) Option a is the correct answer
The Indra Sawhney vs Union of India (1992) judgment, popularly known as the Mandal case, came in the backdrop of the implementation of the recommendations of the Mandal Commission. In 1990, the V.P. Singh Government provided 27% reservation for Other Backward Classes (OBCs) in central government jobs. A concept was introduced in the judgement Exclusion of Creamy Layer- The advanced sections among OBCs (creamy layer) must be excluded from reservation benefits.
Statement I is correct: There was an observation (not a ruling) by the Supreme Court that creamy layer classification should be there in reservations for Scheduled Castes (SCs) and Scheduled Tribes (STs).

But the Government has categorically stated that the principle of creamy layer does not apply to reservations for Scheduled Castes (SCs) and Scheduled Tribes (STs). So presently, the principle of creamy layer does not apply to reservations for the Scheduled Caste and the Scheduled Tribes.

Statement II is incorrect: The Supreme Court recently ruled (Union Of India vs Rohit Nathan on 11 March 2026) that to determine the creamy layer status of OBC candidates for reservation purposes, this "cannot be decided solely on the basis of the [parental] income."

The court noted that the creamy layer exclusion criteria are status-based rather than purely income-based. When the OBC quota was introduced in 1993, a guiding charter was created to exclude OBC candidates whose families had accumulated certain social and economic privileges over the years, known as the creamy layer. This would then allow reservation benefits only for those declared as 'non-creamy layer' or NCL candidates, based on several criteria, including a crucial income or wealth test.

The Court through the judgement explained treating the children of those employed in PSUs or private employment, etc., as being excluded from the benefit of reservation only on the basis of their income derived from salaries, and without reference to their posts (whether Group A or B, or Group C or D) would certainly lead to hostile discrimination between parties who are similarly placed and would amount to equals being treated unequally.

Q.44) Consider the following statements with reference to the suspension of Fundamental Rights during the Proclamation of Emergency under Article 352 of the Constitution of India:

I. The suspension of rights provided under Article 19 of the Constitution takes effect automatically upon the proclamation of the emergency on the grounds of war or external aggression.

II. During its proclamation, the President may, by order, suspend the enforcement of all Fundamental Rights guaranteed under Part III of the Constitution.

Which of the statements given above is/are correct?

a) I only

b) II only

c) Both I and II

d) Neither I nor II

Ans) a

Exp) Option a is the correct answer.

The provisions relating to the suspension of Fundamental Rights during a National Emergency are contained in:

- Article 358 – Suspension of rights under Article 19
- Article 359 – Suspension of the right to move courts for enforcement of Fundamental Rights

Statement I is correct: Article 358 provides for the automatic suspension of freedoms guaranteed under Article 19, but only when a National Emergency is proclaimed on the grounds of war or external aggression. Originally, under the Constitution, Article 19 stood automatically suspended during an Emergency on any ground, including internal disturbance. However, the Constitution (Forty-Fourth Amendment) Act, 1978 restricted its scope, so that such automatic suspension now does not apply in case of armed rebellion.

Statement II is incorrect: Article 359 empowers the President to suspend the right to move courts for the enforcement of specified Fundamental Rights during a National Emergency. However, this does not mean that all Fundamental Rights are suspended; only their enforcement can be restricted, and that too for those rights specifically mentioned in the Presidential Order. However, after the Constitution (Forty-Fourth Amendment) Act, 1978, Articles 20 and 21 cannot be suspended under any circumstances.

Ans) b
Exp) Option b is the correct answer.
The two 4-digit numbers together use 8 distinct non-zero digits.
The non-zero digits are: 1, 2, 3, 4, 5, 6, 7, 8, 9
So exactly one digit is omitted.
Find the total of all non-zero digits
1 + 2 + 3 + 4 + 5 + 6 + 7 + 8 + 9 = 45
Let the omitted digit be x.
Then the sum of the 8 digits actually used in the two numbers is: 45 − x
Use the digit-sum property of 9
A number and the sum of its digits leave the same remainder when divided by 9.
So first find the digit sum of 10842:
1 + 0 + 8 + 4 + 2 = 15
Then digit sum of 15 is: 1 + 5 = 6
So 10842 leaves the same remainder as 6 when divided by 9.
That means the sum of all the used digits, i.e. 45 − x, must also leave the same remainder as 6 when divided by 9.
Now: 45 leaves remainder 0 when divided by 9
So 45 − x leaves the same remainder as −x.
45 − x to leave remainder 6.
So x must be 3, because: 45 − 3 = 42 and 42 leaves remainder 6 when divided by 9.

Q.47) Consider the following in respect of positive integers a and b such that $a^2 - b^2$ is a prime number:
I. a + b can be an even number.
II. ab can be a perfect square.
III. $a^2 + b^2$ can be a prime number.
Which of the statements given above is/are correct?
a) I and II only
b) II and III only
c) III only
d) I, II and III

Ans) c
Exp) Option c is the correct answer.
Given:
$\mathbf{a^2 - b^2 = (a - b)(a + b)}$ and this is a prime number.
Since a prime number has exactly two positive factors, one of the factors must be 1.
Now $\mathbf{a + b > a - b}$, so the only possibility is: $\mathbf{a - b = 1}$
Hence a and b are consecutive positive integers.
Then: $\mathbf{a^2 - b^2 = (a - b)(a + b) = 1 \times (a + b) = a + b}$
So a + b itself must be prime.
Statement I is incorrect: a + b can be an even number Since a and b are consecutive integers, one is odd and the other is even.
Therefore: a + b is always odd.
Statement II is incorrect: ab can be a perfect square
Since a and b are consecutive positive integers, gcd(a, b) = 1
If ab were a perfect square and a, b are coprime, then a and b must each be perfect squares.
But two consecutive positive integers cannot both be perfect squares.
Statement III is correct: $a^2 + b^2$ can be a prime number
Take: a = 2, b = 1
Then: $\mathbf{a^2 - b^2 = 4 - 1 = 3}$, which is prime.
Also: $\mathbf{a^2 + b^2 = 4 + 1 = 5}$, which is also prime.

Q.48) 512 identical cubes are arranged in the form of a solid cubical block. If the outermost layer of cubes is removed from exactly three mutually adjacent faces, how many cubes remain in the block?
a) 216
b) 320
c) 343
d) 344

Ans) c
Exp) Option c is the correct answer.
Since: $\mathbf{512 = 8^3}$
the solid cubical block has dimensions: $\mathbf{8 \times 8 \times 8}$
So initially, total number of cubes is: $\mathbf{8^3 = 512}$
The outermost layer is removed from three mutually adjacent faces.

That means one layer is removed along three different dimensions.
So each dimension reduces by 1: 8 → 7
Hence the remaining block has dimensions: 7 × 7 × 7
Count the remaining cubes
So cubes remaining:
7^3 = 343

Q.49) A Main Statement is followed by four Statements labelled P, Q, R and S. Choose the ordered pair of the Statements where the first Statement implies the second, and the two Statements are logically consistent with the Main Statement.
Main Statement: The Atlas project launches only if the Beacon system is operational.
Statement P: The Atlas project launches.
Statement Q: The Beacon system is operational.
Statement R: The Atlas project does not launch.
Statement S: The Beacon system is not operational.
Select the correct answer.
a) PQ only
b) SR only
c) Both PQ and SR
d) Both QP and RS

Ans) c
Exp) Option c is the correct answer.
Let:

- A = Atlas project launches
- B = Beacon system is operational

The main statement says: A only if B
This means:A ⇒ B
That is, if the Atlas project launches, then the Beacon system must be operational.
Check PQ
From the main statement:
A ⇒ B So if P is true, then Q must be true.
Therefore:P ⇒ Q, So PQ is correct.
Check SR
Here ¬ means "not".
So:

- ¬B = Beacon is not operational
- ¬A = Atlas does not launch

Now from: A ⇒ B, the contrapositive is: ¬B ⇒ ¬A
This means: if Beacon is not operational, then Atlas cannot launch
So: S ⇒ R Therefore SR is also correct.
Check QP
That is: if Beacon is operational, then Atlas launches
But the main statement does not say this. Beacon may be operational, but Atlas still may not launch for some other reason. So QP does not follow.
Check RS
This would mean: ¬A ⇒ ¬B
That is: if Atlas does not launch, then Beacon is not operational

This also does not follow.
Atlas may fail to launch because of budget issues, policy delay, or some other reason, even when Beacon is operational.
So RS does not follow.

Q.50) A Question is given followed by two Statements I and II. Consider the Question and the Statements.
The price of each of two distinct artifacts M and N is less than ₹100 but more than ₹10. If you interchange the digits of the price of M, the number represents the price of N.
Question: What is the exact sum of their prices?
Statement I: The product of the two digits of M's price is a perfect cube.
Statement II: The sum of their prices is 11/3 times their difference.
Which one of the following is correct in respect of the above Question and the Statements?
a) The Question can be answered by using one of the Statements alone, but cannot be answered using the other Statement alone
b) The Question can be answered by using either Statement alone
c) The Question can be answered by using both the Statements together, but cannot be answered using either Statement alone
d) The Question cannot be answered even by using both the Statements together

Ans) c
Exp) Option c is the correct answer.
Let the price of M be: 10a + b
Then the price of N is: 10b + a where a and b are distinct digits, and both prices are two-digit numbers.
So: 1 ≤ a, b ≤ 9 and a ≠ b
Sum of prices: (10a + b) + (10b + a) = 11a + 11b = 11(a + b)
Difference of prices: |(10a + b) − (10b + a)| = |9a − 9b| = 9|a − b|
Check Statement I alone
The product of the two digits of M's price is a perfect cube.
So: ab is a perfect cube.
Since a and b are digits from 1 to 9, possible perfect cubes for ab are: 1, 8, 27, 64
Now check which can be written as a product of two distinct digits:

- 1 = 1 × 1 → not distinct
- 8 = 1 × 8 or 2 × 4
- 27 = 3 × 9
- 64 cannot be formed by two digits from 1 to 9

So possible digit pairs are: (1, 8), (2, 4), (3, 9) and their reverses.
Corresponding sums are:

- 11(1 + 8) = 99
- 11(2 + 4) = 66
- 11(3 + 9) = 132

So the exact sum is not unique. Therefore, Statement I alone is not sufficient.
Check Statement II alone
Given: sum = (11/3) × difference
So: 11(a + b) = (11/3) × 9|a − b|
Cancel 11: a + b = 3|a − b|
Now let a > b. Then: a + b = 3(a − b)
So: a + b = 3a − 3b

a = 2b

Possible digit pairs are: (2,1), (4,2), (6,3), (8,4)

If b > a, the reverse pairs occur, but the sums are the same.

So possible sums are:

I. 11(2 + 1) = 33
II. 11(4 + 2) = 66
III. 11(6 + 3) = 99
IV. 11(8 + 4) = 132

Again, the exact sum is not unique. Therefore, Statement II alone is not sufficient.

Check both statements together

From Statement I, possible digit pairs are: (1,8), (2,4), (3,9) and reverses.

From Statement II, possible digit pairs are: (2,1), (4,2), (6,3), (8,4) and reverses.

The only common pair is: (4,2) or (2,4)

So the two prices are: 42 and 24

Hence the exact sum is: 42 + 24 = 66

Therefore, both statements together are sufficient, but neither alone is sufficient.
