Directions for the following 3 (three) items: Read the following two passages and answer the items that follow the passages. Your answers to these items should be based on the passage only

Passage - 1

In a post-truth world, social media amplifies both accurate and misleading information, often blurring the line between fact and falsehood. This has contributed to rising vaccine hesitancy, fueled by misinformation surrounding the safety and efficacy of vaccines. Addressing vaccine hesitancy is therefore not solely a scientific challenge, but a deeply social one. Emerging global threats, such as the Nipah virus (NiV), highlight that medical countermeasures alone are insufficient to safeguard public health. Public trust remains central to the success of responses to health crises. This necessitates a sustained commitment to transparent communication, community engagement, and public education to ensure that societies are prepared to confront both current and future health threats.

Q.48) With reference to the above passage, the following assumptions have been made:

I. Superstitious beliefs often contribute to the spread of misinformation about vaccines, leading to increased vaccine hesitancy.

II. Vaccine hesitancy poses a significant threat to global health outcomes worldwide.

Passage - 2

Groundwater in India provides drinking water for about 85 per cent of people in rural areas and irrigation for more than 60 per cent of people. People used to see this dependence as a success story, a quiet revolution that decreased the dependence of farmers on the monsoon rains. But what used to be empowering has turned into overreach. However, Over the past 20 years, groundwater levels in Punjab, Haryana, and parts of Rajasthan have become critical. The main reason for this is a political economy that promotes overuse. Free or heavily subsidised energy for farming has led to too much groundwater pumping. This is compounded by the continued dominance of water intensive crops such as paddy and sugarcane, even in water scarce regions. The result is a classic "tragedy of the commons, where relentless extraction is steadily draining shared aquifers.

Q.49) With reference to the above passage, the following assumptions have been made:

I. Subsidies on groundwater pumping need to be optimized to reduce the overexploitation of groundwater.

II. Cultivation of water-efficient crops should be encouraged in regions facing groundwater depletion.

सत्य के बाद की दुनिया में, सोशल मीडिया सटीक और भ्रामक दोनों तरह की जानकारी को बढ़ावा देता है, अक्सर तथ्य और झूठ के बीच की रेखा को धुंधला कर देता है। इससे टीकों की सुरक्षा और प्रभावकारिता से संबंधित गलत सूचनाओं के कारण टीकाकरण के प्रति अनिच्छा बढ़ रही है। इसलिए, टीकाकरण के प्रति अनिच्छा को दूर करना केवल एक वैज्ञानिक चुनौती नहीं है, बल्कि एक गहन सामाजिक चुनौती भी है। निपाह वायरस (NiV) जैसे उभरते वैश्विक खतरे इस बात को उजागर करते हैं कि जन स्वास्थ्य की रक्षा के लिए केवल चिकित्सा उपाय ही पर्याप्त नहीं हैं। स्वास्थ्य संकटों से निपटने में जन विश्वास की सफलता अनिवार्य है। इसके लिए पारदर्शी संचार, सामुदायिक सहभागिता और जन शिक्षा के प्रति निरंतर प्रतिबद्धता आवश्यक है ताकि समाज वर्तमान और भविष्य के स्वास्थ्य खतरों का सामना करने के लिए तैयार रहें।

भारत में भूजल ग्रामीण क्षेत्रों में लगभग 85 प्रतिशत लोगों को पीने का पानी और 60 प्रतिशत से अधिक लोगों को सिंचाई प्रदान करता है। लोग इस निर्भरता को एक सफलता की कहानी के रूप में देखते थे, एक ऐसी शांत क्रांति जिसने किसानों की मानसून की बारिश पर निर्भरता को कम किया। लेकिन जो चीज़ सशक्त बनाती थी, वह अब अतिचार में तब्दील हो गई है। हालांकि, पिछले 20 वर्षों में पंजाब, हरियाणा और राजस्थान के कुछ हिस्सों में भूजल स्तर गंभीर स्थिति में पहुँच गया है। इसका मुख्य कारण एक ऐसी राजनीतिक अर्थव्यवस्था है जो अत्यधिक उपयोग को बढ़ावा देती है। कृषि के लिए मुफ्त या भारी रियायती ऊर्जा के कारण भूजल का अत्यधिक दोहन हुआ है। धान और गन्ना जैसी पानी की अधिक खपत करने वाली फसलों का लगातार प्रभुत्व, यहाँ तक कि जल-संकटग्रस्त क्षेत्रों में भी, इस समस्या को और बढ़ा रहा है। इसका परिणाम एक विशिष्ट "साझा संसाधनों की त्रासदी" है, जहाँ निरंतर दोहन से साझा जल भंडार लगातार सूख रहे हैं।

I. भूजल के अत्यधिक दोहन को कम करने के लिए भूजल दोहन पर दी जाने वाली सब्सिडी का अनुकूलन किया जाना चाहिए।

Q.1) Consider the following statements:
Statement-I: In India, prisons are managed by State Governments with their own rules and regulations for the day-to-day administration of prisons Statement-II: In India, prisons are governed by the Prisons Act, 1894 which expressly kept the subject of prisons in the control of Provincial Governments.
Which one of the following is correct in respect of the above statements?
a) Both Statement-I and Statement-II are correct and Statement-II is the correct explanation for Statement-I
b) Both Statement-I and Statement-II are correct and Statement-II is not the correct explanation for Statement-I
c) Statement-I is correct but Statement-II is incorrect
d) Statement-I is incorrect but Statement-II is correct

Ans) a
Exp) Option a is the correct answer
The Prisons Act 1894 is one of the oldest pieces of legislation in India dealing with laws enacted in relation to prisons in India.
Statement I is correct: Prison is a State subject under List-II of the Seventh Schedule in the Constitution. States have the primary role, responsibility and power to change the current prison laws, rules and regulations. Hence it is true that prisons are managed by the state governments with their own rules and regulations.
Statement II is correct: The management and administration of Prisons falls exclusively in the domain of the State Governments and is governed by the Prisons Act, 1894 and the Prison Manuals of the respective State Governments. Hence it is true that the Prisons Act 1894 kept the subject of prisons in the Provincial government (State governments) and this explains why State governments have the power to frame their own rules and regulations regarding prison management.

Q.2) With reference to the High Court Judges in India, consider the following statements:
I. S/he can be removed from office by an order of the President on the grounds of 'proved misbehaviour' or 'incapacity.'
II. The Judges (Inquiry) Act, 1968, regulates the procedure relating to the removal of a High Court judge.
III. The motion for removal of a judge of the High Court must be passed by each House of Parliament by a majority of not less than two-thirds of the total membership of the House.
Which of the statements given above is/are correct?
a) I and II only
b) II only
c) I and III only
d) I, II and III

Ans) a
Exp) Option a is the correct answer.
Under Article 217, a High Court judge is removed in the same manner and on the same grounds as a judge of the Supreme Court.
Statement I is correct: A High Court judge can be removed from office by an order of the President. A High Court judge is removed by the President's order on grounds of proved misbehaviour or incapacity.
Statement II is correct: While the Constitution provides the power of removal, the actual procedure for the investigation and proof of misbehaviour/incapacity is regulated by the Judges (Inquiry) Act, 1968. The Judges (Inquiry) Act, 1968 regulates the procedure relating to the removal of a judge of a High Court by the process of impeachment. This Act outlines the steps from the introduction of the motion in Parliament to the appointment of a three-member committee (consisting of a SC judge, a HC Chief Justice, and an eminent jurist) to investigate the charges.

Statement III is incorrect: The impeachment motion must be passed by each House with a special majority, i.e., majority of total membership of the House and two-thirds of members of that House present and voting, not two-thirds of total membership alone. A "majority of not less than two-thirds of the total membership" is the majority required for the Impeachment of the President of India, not for a HC judge.

II. An Additional Judge holds the office for a period not exceeding two years or until he/she attains the age of 62 years, whichever is earlier.
Which of the statements given above is/are correct?
a) I only
b) II only
c) Both I and II
d) Neither I nor II

Ans) b
Exp) Option b is the correct answer.
The appointment of Additional Judges is a constitutional provision under Article 224, designed to handle temporary increases in the workload of a High Court or to clear arrears of work.
Statement I is incorrect: Additional Judges of a High Court are appointed by the President, in consultation with the CJI, Governor, and Chief Justice of the High Court. The Chief Justice of the High Court does not appoint them.
Statement II is correct: Additional Judges are appointed for a temporary period not exceeding two years to handle increased workload or arrears.
As per Article 124(3) of the Indian Constitution, no person appointed as an additional or acting Judge of a High Court shall hold office after attaining the age of sixty-two years.
Thus, an Additional Judge of a High Court can be appointed for a period not exceeding two years or until 62 years whichever is earlier.

Q.4) In the context of Indian Polity, consider the following statements:
I. Provisions relating to tribunals were introduced into the Constitution of India by the 42nd Constitutional Amendment Act, 1976.
II. The Swaran Singh Committee recommended the establishment of administrative tribunals at both the Central and State levels to decide cases relating to service matters.
Which of the statements given above is/are correct?
a) I only
b) II only
c) Both I and II
d) Neither I nor II

Ans) c
Exp) Option a is the correct answer.

Statement I is correct: The original Constitution did not contain provisions with respect to tribunals. The 42nd Amendment Act of 1976 added a new Part XIV-A to the Constitution. This part is entitled as 'Tribunals' and consists of only two Articles–Article 323 A dealing with administrative tribunals and Article 323 B dealing with tribunals for other matters.

Statement II is correct: The Swaran Singh Committee recommended the establishment of administrative tribunals at both Central and State levels to decide cases relating to service matters. The committee suggested that for the effective implementation of socio-economic policies and to speed up the disposal of cases related to service matters, specialized administrative tribunals should be established.

Q.5) With reference to the Chief Justice of India (CJI), consider the following statements:
I. The Office of the Chief Justice of India (CJI) is a public authority under the Right to Information (RTI) Act, 2005.
II. S/he has the authority to constitute benches of the Supreme Court and allocate cases to them.
III. S/he has the power to appoint ad hoc judges of the Supreme Court for a temporary period.
IV. The President of India administers the oath of office to the person appointed as CJI.
Which of the statements given above are correct?
a) I, II and III only
b) I, II and IV only
c) II, III and IV only
d) I, II, III and IV

Ans) d
Exp) Option d is the correct answer.
Statement I is correct: In Central Public Information Officer, Supreme Court of India v. Subhash Chandra Agarwal (2019), a five-judge Constitution Bench ruled that the Office of the CJI is a "public authority" under Section 2(h) of the Right to Information (RTI) Act, 2005. The court held that transparency does not undermine judicial independence; rather, they go hand-in-hand to ensure accountability. Hence, the Office of the Chief Justice of India falls within the ambit of the Right to Information (RTI) Act, 2005.
Statement II is correct: The CJI is the "Master of the Roster." This refers to the exclusive privilege of the CJI to constitute benches of the Court and allocate cases (subjects) to these benches. While all judges of the Supreme Court are equal in their judicial power, the CJI is "first among equals". Administratively, the CJI holds the supreme authority to decide which judge will hear which case.
Statement III is correct: According to Article 127 of the Constitution of India, if there is a lack of quorum of the permanent judges to hold or continue any session of the Supreme Court, the CJI can appoint a judge of a High Court as an ad hoc judge of the Supreme Court for a temporary period. The CJI can do this only with the previous consent of the President and after consultation with the Chief Justice of the High Court concerned.
Statement IV is correct: As per Article 124 of the Indian Constitution, every person appointed to be a Judge of the Supreme Court shall, before he enters upon his office, make and subscribe before the President, or some person appointed in that behalf by him, an oath or affirmation according to the form set out for the purpose in the Third Schedule. In the Third Schedule, there is mention of the judge of the Supreme Court as well as the Chief Justice of India form of oath.
Eg.: Justice Surya Kant took oath as 53rd Chief Justice of India. President Droupadi Murmu swore in Justice Kant as Chief Justice of India.

Q.6) Two companies enter into a commercial contract which includes a clause stating that in case of any dispute, the matter will be referred to a neutral third party whose decision will be binding on both parties. Later, a dispute arises and they follow this clause instead of approaching the court.
Which of the following Alternative Dispute Resolution mechanisms is described above?
a) Mediation
b) Arbitration
c) Conciliation
d) Negotiation

Ans) b
Exp) Option b is the correct answer.
The situation described is an example of Arbitration, governed in India by the Arbitration and Conciliation Act, 1996.
Option b is correct: In the given case, two companies include a clause in their contract stating that if any dispute arises, it will be referred to a neutral third party whose decision will be binding. This clause is known as an arbitration clause. The main aspect of arbitration is that the third party (arbitrator) gives a decision (called an arbitral award) which is binding on both parties. Also, the parties voluntarily agree in advance (through contract) to resolve disputes in this manner instead of going to court.

- Mediation: A mediator facilitates discussion between parties but does not impose a decision. The outcome depends entirely on mutual agreement.
- Conciliation: Similar to mediation, but the conciliator may suggest solutions; however, the decision is still not binding unless parties agree.
- Arbitration: A neutral arbitrator hears both sides and gives a binding decision, which is enforceable like a court decree.
- Negotiation: Negotiation is a process of resolving the dispute arising between the parties without any third-party interference with only the aim of reaching a negotiated settlement.

Q.7) Consider the following statements with reference to Permanent Lok Adalats established under the Legal Services Authorities Act, 1987:
I. It facilitates the resolution of disputes relating to public utility services.
II. The pecuniary jurisdiction of a Permanent Lok Adalat is currently up to one lakh rupees.
III. It shall not have jurisdiction in respect of any matter relating to an offence not compoundable under any law.
IV. An award passed by a Permanent Lok Adalat shall be final and binding on all the parties to the dispute.
Which of the statements given above are correct?
a) I, III and IV only
b) I and III only
c) II and IV only
d) I, II, III and IV

Ans) a
Exp) Option a is the correct answer.

Statement I is correct: Permanent Lok Adalats (PLAs) are a dispute resolution mechanism established under the Legal Services Authorities Act, 1987, through an amendment in 2002, to deal with disputes relating to public utility services such as transport, postal, telegraph, electricity, water supply, sanitation, and insurance services.
They are designed to provide pre-litigation conciliation and adjudication, thereby reducing the burden on regular courts.
A Permanent Lok Adalat consists of a Chairman (who is or has been a District Judge or higher) and two other persons with adequate experience in public utility services.
Statement II is incorrect: With respect to pecuniary jurisdiction, the Act originally provided a limit of ₹10 lakh, but it also empowered the Central Government to revise this limit. Accordingly, in 2015, the pecuniary jurisdiction was enhanced to ₹1 crore.
Statement III is correct: Further, the Act clearly provides that a Permanent Lok Adalat shall not have jurisdiction over matters relating to offences that are non-compoundable.
This is true for Lok Adalat that any matter relating to an offence not compoundable under the law shall not be settled in Lok Adalat.
An important procedural feature is that disputes can be brought before a Permanent Lok Adalat before they are taken to regular courts, and once an application is made, the parties cannot approach courts for the same dispute. The PLA first attempts conciliation; if a settlement is reached, it passes an award based on the agreement. If conciliation fails, it has the power to decide the dispute on merits (unlike regular Lok Adalats).
Statement IV is correct: The award passed by a Permanent Lok Adalat is final and binding on all parties and is deemed to be a decree of a civil court, with no appeal provided.

Q.8) With reference to the In-House Inquiry Procedure of the Supreme Court of India, consider the following statements:
I. The In-House Inquiry Procedure of the Supreme Court was formalised through the Judges (Inquiry) Act, 1968.
II. The In-House Committee for a complaint against a High Court Judge consists of one High Court Judge and two Chief Justices of other High Courts.
III. The In-House Committee is free to devise its own procedure consistent with the principle of natural justice.
Which of the statements given above is/are correct?
a) I and III only
b) II only
c) II and III only
d) I, II and III

Ans) c
Exp) Option c is the correct answer.
Statement I is incorrect: The In-House mechanism of the Supreme Court emerged from the landmark case of C. Ravichandran Iyer v Justice A.M. Bhattacharjee. Accordingly, a five-judge committee was constituted. This committee submitted its report in 1997, which was later adopted with modifications in 1999, thereby formalising the In-House Procedure (not through legislation, but through internal judicial resolution).
The committee recommended 3 different types of in-house inquiry committees based on the judge against whom a complaint is made.

- If complaints against a High Court Judge (other than Chief Justice): The committee will comprise two Chief Justices of other High Courts and one Judge of a High Court. The complainant can make a complaint to the Chief Justice of the concerned High court or CJI or the President. Thus statement II is correct.

- If complaints against Chief Justice of a High Court: The committee will comprise one Supreme Court Judge and two Chief Justices of other High Courts. The complainant can make a complaint to the CJI or the President.
- If complaints against a Judge of the Supreme Court: The committee will comprise three Judges of the Supreme Court. The complainant can make a complaint to the CJI or the President.

Statement III is correct: The In-House Committee is not bound by strict procedural laws. It is free to devise its own procedure, subject to principles of natural justice.

After inquiry, the committee submits its report to the Chief Justice of India. After the inquiry, the committee submits its report to the Chief Justice of India, and the outcome depends on the gravity of the findings. If no substance is found in the complaint, the matter is closed. In cases of minor misconduct, the judge may be advised, warned, or requested to resign. Where serious misconduct is established, the judge may be asked to resign, and if the judge refuses, the matter can lead to the initiation of impeachment proceedings under the Constitution. Thus, the mechanism serves as a preliminary, corrective process rather than a punitive one.

Q.9) Consider the following statements with reference to the legal profession in India:
I. Advocates enrolled with the State Bar Council alone are entitled to practise law in India
II. In India, advocates are prohibited from advertising or soliciting work either directly or indirectly.
Which of the statements given above is/are correct?
a) I only
b) II only
c) Both I and II
d) Neither I nor II

Ans) c

Exp) Option c is the correct answer.

The legal profession in India is governed by the Advocates Act, 1961, which establishes the regulatory framework for advocates through the Bar Council of India and State Bar Councils.

Statement I is correct: Under this law, only those individuals who are formally enrolled as advocates with the Bar Council are entitled to practise law. This is clearly laid down in Section 29, which declares that advocates are the only recognised class of persons entitled to practise the profession of law, and further reinforced by Section 30, which grants every enrolled advocate the right to practise throughout the territory of India, including before all courts and tribunals. Thus, enrolment with a Bar Council is a mandatory condition for practising law and representing clients in courts.

Statement II is correct: In addition to regulating entry into the profession, the Act also provides for standards of professional conduct through rules framed by the Bar Council of India. As per Rule 36 of the Bar Council of India Rules, advocates are prohibited from advertising or soliciting work either directly or indirectly.

Statement I is correct. The 2nd World Summit for Social Development (2025) was formally convened under the authority of the United Nations General Assembly (UNGA).

Q.11) Consider the following statements:
1. The Constitution of India defines its 'Basic Structure' in terms of federalism, secularism, fundamental rights and democracy.
2. The Constitution of India provides for 'Judicial review' to safeguard the citizens' liberties and to preserve the ideals on which the Constitution is based.
Which of the statements given above is/are correct?
a) 1 only
b) 2 only
c) Both 1 and 2
d) Neither 1 nor 2

Ans) d
Exp) Option d is the correct answer.
Statement 1 is incorrect. The basic structure doctrine is not defined by the Constitution. It is rather a judicial invention that came through Kesavananda Bharati vs State of Kerala case (1973). Supreme Court said that the Constitution of India has certain basic features that cannot be altered or destroyed through the provisions of amendment, by the Parliament of India, as mentioned in the Constitution of India.
Statement 2 is incorrect. The term judicial review is not found explicitly anywhere in the Indian constitution. However, Article 13 of the Constitution empowers the SC to review any law in India and strike it down if it violates the Constitutional provisions, especially Part III (on Fundamental Rights), thus providing the power of judicial review indirectly.

Q.12) With reference to the "Advisory Jurisdiction" of the Supreme Court of India under Article 143 of the Constitution of India, consider the following statements:
I. Under Article 143, the Supreme Court is obligated to give its opinion if the President refers a question to it concerning any dispute arising out of a pre-Constitution treaty or agreement.
II. The minimum number of Judges who are to sit for the purpose of hearing any reference under Article 143 shall be five.

III. The opinion given by the Supreme Court under Article 143 is not binding on the President.
Which of the statements given above are correct?
a) I and II only
b) II and III only
c) I and III only
d) I, II and III

Ans) d
Exp) Option d is the correct answer.
The Constitution of India under Article 143 authorises the President to seek the opinion of the Supreme Court in the two categories of matters: (a) On any question of law or fact of public importance which has arisen or which is likely to arise. (b) On any dispute arising out of any pre-constitution treaty, agreement, covenant, engagement, sanad or other similar instruments.
Statement I is correct: Under Article 143(2), relating to any dispute arising out of any pre-constitution treaty, agreement, covenant, or engagement., the Supreme Court is bound to give its opinion when referred by the President.
Statement II is correct: A Constitution Bench is a special bench of the Supreme Court of India comprising five or more judges,hence the Constitutional cases or references made by the President under Article 143 are decided by a Bench consisting of at least five judges. All other cases are decided by single judges and division benches. Hence, matters referred under Article 143 must be heard by a Constitution Bench of the Supreme Court.
Statement III is correct: The opinion expressed by the Supreme Court under Article 143 is advisory in nature. It is not a judicial pronouncement, a judgment, or a decree. Hence, it is not binding on the president; he may follow or may not follow the opinion. However, it facilitates the government to have an authoritative legal opinion on a matter to be decided by it.

Q.13) With reference to the State Administrative Tribunals (SATs), consider the following statements:
I. Its members are appointed by the Governor of the state concerned.
II. SATs are established under a law passed by the State Legislature.
III. The decisions of these Tribunals are subject to judicial review by the concerned High Courts.
Which of the statements given above is/are correct?
a) II only
b) III only
c) I only
d) I and III

Ans) b
Exp) Option b is the correct answer.
The original Constitution of India did not contain provisions with respect to tribunals. The 42nd Amendment Act of 1976 added a new Part XIV-A to the Constitution. This part is entitled as 'Tribunals' and consists of only two Articles– Article 323 A dealing with administrative tribunals and Article 323 B dealing with tribunals for other matters.
Statement I is incorrect: The Chairman and members of State Administrative Tribunals are appointed by the President of India under the Administrative Tribunals Act. This appointment is made by the President after consultation with the Governor of the state concerned.
Statement II is incorrect: Under Article 323A, only Parliament has the power to provide for the adjudication of disputes relating to the recruitment and conditions of service of persons appointed to public services of the Union or a State. In pursuance of Article 323 A, the Parliament has passed the Administrative Tribunals Act in 1985. The act authorises the Central government to establish one Central administrative tribunal and the state administrative tribunals. The Administrative Tribunals Act of 1985 empowers the Central government to establish the State Administrative Tribunals (SATs) on specific request of the concerned state governments.

Statement III is correct: The SATs exercise original jurisdiction in relation to recruitment and all service matters of state government employees. In the L. Chandra Kumar case (1997), the Supreme Court declared that the power of judicial review over the decisions of tribunals is a part of the "Basic Structure" of the Constitution. Hence, the decisions of SATs are subject to the judicial review by the concerned High Court.

Q.14) The number of Judges in the High Court of a State can be increased by:
a) An Act of the State Legislature
b) The President of India
c) An Act of Parliament
d) The Chief Justice of the concerned High Court in consultation with Chief Justice of India

Ans) b

Exp) Option b is the correct answer

Every High Court consists of a Chief Justice and such other judges as the President may from time to time deem necessary to appoint. Thus, the Constitution does not specify the strength of a High Court and leaves it to the discretion of the President. Accordingly, the President determines the strength of the High Court from time to time depending on its workload. Thus, the number of Judges in the High Court of a State can be increased by the President of India.

II. The Convention seeks to criminalize the provision or collection of funds for terrorist acts.
III. India is a signatory to the Convention.
Which of the statements given above are correct?
a) I and III only
b) I and II only
c) II and III only
d) I, II and III

Statement I is correct. The International Convention for the Suppression of the Financing of Terrorism was adopted by the UN General Assembly in 1999 as part of a broader effort during the late 20th century to develop sectoral anti-terrorism treaties. It subsequently entered into force in 2002 after receiving the required number of ratifications.

Statement II is correct. A central provision of the Convention is the obligation on states to criminalize the direct or indirect provision, collection, or channeling of funds intended for terrorist activities.

Statement III is correct. India is a signatory and has ratified the Convention.

Q.16) In the context of the Indian judiciary, consider the following hypothetical disputes:
I. A boundary dispute between the States of Odisha and Andhra Pradesh, arising due to the colonial era 1927 notification and the 1943 agreements.
II. A dispute between the States of Tamil Nadu and Karnataka over the sharing of the Cauvery River water.
III. A dispute between the Government of India and the State of Kerala involving a question of fact on which the existence of a legal right depends.
IV. A dispute between the Government of India and the Union Territory of Puducherry over the role of the Lieutenant Governor.
How many of the disputes listed above fall under the exclusive original jurisdiction of the Supreme Court under Article 131 of the Indian Constitution?
a) Only one
b) Only two
c) Only three
d) None

Ans) a
Exp) Option a is the correct answer.
Article 131 of the Constitution defines the original jurisdiction of the Supreme Court of India. It deals with disputes of a federal nature involving the Union and the States. Under Article 131, the Supreme Court has exclusive jurisdiction over disputes involving:
- The Government of India and one or more States
- The Government of India and one or more States on one side and other State(s) on the other
- Two or more States

The dispute must involve a question of law or fact on which the existence or extent of a legal right depends. Article 131 does not apply to disputes arising out of any pre-Constitution treaty, agreement, covenant, or similar instrument.
Statement I is incorrect: State of Orissa v. State of Andhra Pradesh (boundary demarcation): As per Article 131 of the Indian Constitution, the original jurisdiction shall not extend to a dispute arising out of any treaty, agreement, covenant, engagement, sanad or other similar instrument which, having been entered into or executed before the commencement of this Constitution, continues in operation after such commencement, or which provides that the said jurisdiction shall not extend to such a dispute.
Now in the above case the dispute is arising of colonial era agreement, so here the Supreme Court original jurisdiction will not apply.
Eg. In the early 1980s, Odisha filed a case in the Supreme Court demanding right and possession of jurisdiction over the 21 villages. In 2006 however, the court ruled that since disputes belonging to the state boundaries are not within the jurisdiction of the Supreme Court, the matter can only be resolved by Parliament and passed a permanent injunction on the disputed area.
Statement II is incorrect: The disputes over river water sharing occur between States, they are specifically excluded from the Supreme Court's original jurisdiction.
- Under Article 262, Parliament is empowered to provide for adjudication of inter-state river water disputes, for this Parliament has enacted the Inter-State River Water Disputes Act, 1956, under which such disputes are decided by tribunals, not the Supreme Court.
- Further, the jurisdiction of the Supreme Court is barred in such matters.

Statement III is correct: Government of India vs State of Kerala (question of legal right): This satisfies both conditions: Union and State are parties, and the dispute involves a question of legal right.
Statement IV is incorrect: Government of India and the Union Territory of Puducherry: Article 131 covers the disputes between Union vs States and States vs States. Whether "Union Territory" fall under the word "State" of Article 131 for invoking the original jurisdiction of the Supreme Court. There is no clarity from the Courts regarding the same. Also, in the case of Government of India vs NCT Delhi the dispute was decided by the High Courts as well as in case of Puducherry vs Government of India, the dispute was decided by Madras High Court.

Q.17) Consider the following statements:
Statement I: The Due Process of Law is wider in scope than the Procedure Established by Law.
Statement II: The Due Process of Law requires a law to be fair, just, and reasonable, whereas the Procedure Established by Law checks whether a legally enacted law is followed.
Which one of the following is correct in respect of the above statements?
a) Both Statement I and Statement II are correct and Statement II explains Statement I.
b) Both Statement I and Statement II are correct but Statement II does not explain Statement I.
c) Statement I is correct but Statement II is not correct.
d) Statement I is not correct but Statement II is correct.

Ans) a
Exp) Option a is the correct answer.
Statement I is correct: "Procedure Established by Law" means that a person can be deprived of life or liberty as long as there is a law made by a competent legislature and the correct procedure is followed.
"Due Process of Law" is a wider idea. It means that courts will check both the procedure and the quality of the law.
Statement II is correct and explains Statement I: "Due Process of Law" means that a law must not only follow proper procedure, but it must also be fair, just, and reasonable. Courts can strike down a law if it is arbitrary or unfair, even if it was properly passed.
Procedure Established by Law" means courts only check if a law is properly enacted and follows due procedure, not whether it is fair or reasonable (as held in A.K. Gopalan v. State of Madras). In contrast, "Due Process of Law" allows courts to examine the fairness and reasonableness of a law and strike it down if it is arbitrary.
Procedure Established by Law," derived from the English system, gives limited power to courts, while "Due Process of Law," from the U.S. Constitution, allows courts to strike down arbitrary laws and ensures fairness through the principle of natural justice.
In India, this idea was accepted in Maneka Gandhi v. Union of India. The Supreme Court said that any procedure under Article 21 must be right, just, and fair, not arbitrary. Thus Due Process is wider because–it adds the requirement of fairness, not just procedure.

Q.18) With reference to the District Judge in India, consider the following statements:
I. The District Judge of the district is the ex-officio Chairman of the District Legal Services Authority.
II. The appointment, posting, and promotion of District Judges in a state are made by the Governor of the State in consultation with the High Court.
Which of the statements given above is/are correct?
a) I only
b) II only
c) Both I and II
d) Neither I nor II

Ans) c

Exp) Option c is the correct answer.

The District Judge is the highest judicial authority in the district. They possess original and appellate jurisdiction in both civil and criminal matters. When presiding over a criminal case, the District Judge is known as the Sessions Judge. In other words, the district judge is also the sessions judge. When he deals with civil cases, he is known as the district judge and when he hears the criminal cases, he is called the sessions judge. The district judge exercises both judicial and administrative powers. He also has supervisory powers over all the subordinate courts in the district.

Statement I is correct: Under the Legal Services Authorities Act, 1987, a District Legal Services Authority (DLSA) is constituted in every district to provide free legal aid and organize Lok Adalats. The District Judge serves as the ex-officio Chairperson of the DLSA. This ensures that the state's legal aid programs are integrated with the local judicial administration.

Statement II is correct: The appointment, posting, and promotion of district judges in a state are made by the Governor of the State. The Governor cannot act independently in this matter. The Governor must exercise this power in consultation with the High Court exercising jurisdiction in relation to such State.

Knowledge Base:

A person to be appointed as district judge should have the following qualifications: (a) He should not already be in the service of the Central or the state government. (b) He should have been a practicing lawyer or a pleader for seven years. (c) He should be recommended by the high court for appointment.

Q.21) Which of the following conditions is/are necessary for the issue of a writ of certiorari in India?
1. There should be a tribunal or an officer having legal authority to determine questions affecting rights of subjects and having a duty to act judicially.
2. Such tribunal or officer has acted without jurisdiction.
Select the correct answer using the code given below.
a) 1 only
b) 2 only
c) Both 1 and 2
d) Neither 1 nor 2

Ans) c
Exp) Option c is the correct answer
Statement 1 is correct: The condition mentioned in statement 1 implies that the writ of certiorari can only be issued against a tribunal or an officer who has the legal authority to decide matters that impact the rights of individuals and is obligated to act judicially. In other words, the tribunal or officer must have the power to make decisions that affect the rights of individuals, and they must have a duty to act in a judicial or quasi-judicial capacity.

Statement 2 is correct: This condition implies that the writ of certiorari can only be issued if the tribunal or officer has acted beyond their legal authority or jurisdiction. If they have acted without the requisite jurisdiction, the writ can be issued to quash their decision or order.

For the issue of a writ of certiorari in India, both conditions mentioned in options 1 and 2 are necessary.

Q.22) In the context of the Indian judicial system, what does the 'Doctrine of stare decisis' primarily refer to?
a) A rule permitting a judicial or administrative authority to adjudicate a matter despite a conflict of interest, if no other competent authority exists to act.
b) A principle allowing the legislature to override judicial decisions to implement Articles 39(b) and 39(c) of the Directive Principles of State Policy.
c) A rule that obligates judges ordinarily to adhere to prior verdicts while ruling on a similar case.
d) A principle allowing the executive to bypass the judiciary during national emergencies.

Ans) c
Exp) Option c is the correct answer.
The doctrine of 'stare decisis' (to stand by decided cases) is derived from the legal maxim 'stare decisis et non quieta movere'. It is best to adhere to decisions and not to disturb questions which have been put at rest. When a point of law has been settled, it forms a precedent which is not to be ordinarily departed from afterwards.
When the same point comes for consideration again in litigation, the scales of justice must be kept even and steady. A principle of law should not change from case to case. The judgments are not to be altered or changed in accordance with the individual opinions or private sentiments of the judges.
Article 141 of the Indian Constitution which provides that the law declared by the Supreme Court shall be binding on all courts within the territory of India. It is based on a similar doctrine.

Q.26) With reference to contempt of court in India, consider the following statements:
I. The Constitution of India defines civil contempt as wilful disobedience of a court order, decree, direction, or breach of an undertaking given to a court.
II. District courts in India have the power to punish for contempt of court.
III. The Contempt of Courts Act, 1971 distinguishes between civil contempt and criminal contempt.
Which of the above given statements is/are correct?
a) I and II only
b) I only
c) III only
d) I, II and III

Ans) c
Exp) Option c is the correct answer.
The Constitution declares both the Supreme Court and High Courts as Courts of Record under article 129 and 215 respectively. The two key aspects of court of records are:

- Permanent Record: Their judgments, proceedings, and acts are recorded for perpetual memory and testimony. These records have evidentiary value and cannot be questioned in any court.
- Power to Punish for Contempt: They can punish for their own contempt including the contempt of subordinate courts and district courts.

Statement I is incorrect and Statement III is correct: The constitution nowhere defines the contempt of court. Instead the contempt of court is defined in Contempt of Courts Act, 1971 enacted on the recommendations of HN Sanyal Committee. The Act classifies contempt of court in two types namely:

- Civil Contempt: Wilful disobedience of any judgment, decree, direction, order, writ of a court or breach of an undertaking given to a court.
- Criminal Contempt: Includes publication or acts that scandalise or lower the authority of the court, or prejudice or interfere with judicial proceedings, or obstruct administration of justice.

Statement II is incorrect: Subordinate courts (including District Courts) do not possess inherent powers to punish for contempt of themselves. Under the Contempt of Courts Act, 1971, the power to punish for contempt is vested in the High Courts, which can take action both for contempt of themselves and of subordinate courts, including district courts.

Q.27) In the context of the Indian judiciary, consider the following statements:
Statement I: The writ jurisdiction of High Courts is wider than that of the Supreme Court.
Statement II: The Supreme Court can issue writs against public bodies only, whereas High Courts can issue writs against both private and public bodies.
Which one of the following is correct in respect of the above statements?
a) Both Statement I and Statement II are correct and Statement II explains Statement I.
b) Both Statement I and Statement II are correct but Statement II does not explain Statement I.
c) Statement I is correct but Statement II is not correct.
d) Statement I is not correct but Statement II is correct.

Ans) c
Exp) Option c is the correct answer.
The Supreme Court (under Article 32) and the High Courts (under Article 226) can issue the writs of habeas corpus, mandamus, prohibition, certiorari and quo-warranto. The Parliament (under Article 32) can empower any other court to issue these writs. Since no such provision has been made so far, only the Supreme Court and the High courts can issue the writs and not any other court.

Statement I is correct: The Supreme Court can issue writs only for the enforcement of Fundamental Rights (Part III of the Constitution) whereas, a High court can issue writs not only for the enforcement of Fundamental Rights but also for any other purpose. The expression 'for any other purpose' refers to the enforcement of an ordinary legal right. Thus, the writ jurisdiction of the Supreme Court, in this respect, is narrower than that of the High Court.

Statement II is incorrect: Both the Supreme Court and High Courts can issue writs against "the State" i.e. authorities, government bodies, and statutory corporations. The Supreme Court is not strictly limited to "public bodies only"; writs can lie wherever there is a violation of Fundamental Rights. Eg. A writ of habeas corpus can be filed against a private person or individual who is holding another person in illegal, wrongful, or unlawful detention. Both the Supreme Court and High Court can issue this writ against a private individual as well.

The Supreme Court can issue writs against a person or government throughout the territory of India whereas a High Court can issue writs against a person residing or against a government or authority located within its territorial jurisdiction only or outside its territorial jurisdiction only if the cause of action arises within its territorial jurisdiction.

Hence, Statement I is correct but Statement II is not correct.

Q.28) Which one among the following is authorized to transfer cases from a High Court of a State to the Supreme Court of India?
a) The Supreme Court of India only
b) Both the Supreme Court and the respective High Court
c) Attorney General of India
d) The President of India.

Ans) a

Exp) Option a is the correct answer.

Option a is correct: Article 139A of the Constitution gives the Supreme Court the power to transfer certain cases. It can withdraw cases from High Courts if they involve important and common questions of law.

Under Article 139A, the Supreme Court can transfer cases pending before one or more High Courts to itself if the cases involve the same or similar legal questions of general importance. This can be done either on its own initiative or on the request of the Attorney General of India or any party involved in the case.

The purpose of this power is to ensure uniform interpretation of important legal questions and avoid conflicting judgments by different High Courts. Therefore, neither the High Court nor the Chief Justice (of India or of a High Court) has this power independently—only the Supreme Court exercises it.

Q.29) With reference to the Family Courts in India, consider the following statements:
I. Appeals against the judgments of Family Courts shall lie to the High Court of the respective state.
II. The State/UT Governments are required to establish family court in every city or town with a population exceeding one million.
III. It is bound by the rules of evidence and procedure prescribed under the Bharatiya Sakshya Adhiniyam (BSA), 2023 (previously Indian Evidence Act, 1872).
Which of the statements given above is/are correct?
a) I and II

b) I only
c) I and III
d) II and III

Ans) a
Exp) Option a is the correct answer.
The Family Courts Act, 1984 was enacted to provide for the establishment of Family Courts with a view to promote conciliation and secure speedy settlement of disputes relating to marriage and family affairs. It reflects the recognition of the need for specialized judicial mechanisms to handle family-related issues, which often require a more sensitive and expedient approach compared to conventional civil courts.
Statement I is correct: Every judgment or order of a Family Court can be appealed only to the High Court.
Statement II is correct: Under Section 3(1)(a) of the Family Courts Act, State/UT Governments are required to establish a family court in every city or town with a population exceeding one million, while in other areas, setting up such courts is optional based on necessity.
Statement III is incorrect: Family Courts are not strictly bound by the Indian Evidence Act or strict procedural rules. The Court is also not strictly bound by the Code of Civil Procedure (CPC). The Family Courts Act, 1984 simplifies the rules of evidence and procedure so as to enable a Family Court to deal effectively with a dispute.

c) It can be filed against an interim or interlocutory order, decree, or judgment of a lower court.

Q.36) Consider the following statements in respect of cognizable and non-cognizable offences:
I. Unlike in the case of non-cognizable offences, in case of cognizable offences, the police can initiate an investigation on their own without prior permission from a court.
II. Unlike in the case of non-cognizable offences, FIR registration is mandatory in cognizable offences.
Which of the statements given above is/are correct?
a) I only
b) II only
c) Both I and II
d) Neither I nor II

Ans) c
Exp) Option c is the correct answer.
"Cognizable case" is a case in which a police officer may arrest the offender without a warrant of arrest. A non-cognizable offence is a less serious crime where police cannot arrest the accused or start an investigation without a warrant or explicit permission from a Magistrate.
Statement I is correct: In cognizable offences (serious crimes like murder or rape), police can register an FIR, arrest without a warrant, and start an investigation immediately without magistrate permission. Conversely, in non-cognizable offences (minor offenses like defamation), police need a magistrate's warrant to arrest and approval to investigate Statement II is correct: Where the offence is a "cognizable offence" the Police can register FIR, conduct investigation and file a "Police Report" before the Court concerned. The police can register FIRs only for cognizable offences. For non-cognizable offences, such as bigamy or defamation, the police cannot arrest without a warrant and thus cannot register an FIR. II. Free legal aid and assistance are provided to eligible individuals in both civil and criminal matters.
III. Legal aid can be withdrawn where the person engages a legal practitioner other than the one assigned by the Legal Services Institution.
IV. One cannot apply for legal aid at the time of appeal if he/she had a private lawyer before the appellate stage.
Which of the statements given above are correct?
a) I and II only
b) II and III only
c) I, II and III

d) I, III and IV

Ans) c

Exp) Option c is the correct answer.

According to the Legal Services Authorities Act, 1987, "legal services" includes any service in the conduct of any case or other legal proceeding before any court or other authority or tribunal and the giving of advice on any legal matter.

Statement I is correct: A woman is entitled for free legal aid irrespective of her income or financial status. This is provided in Section 12 (c) of the Legal Services Authorities Act, 1987.

Statement II is correct: The Legal Services Institutions under the Legal Services Authorities Act, 1987 provide legal aid and assistance in civil as well as criminal cases. They also provide assistance in quasi- criminal or judicial cases. They also provide legal assistance and legal aid in cases before Tribunals and Forums.

Statement III is correct: Legal aid provided under the Legal Services Authorities Act, 1987 can be withdrawn where the person engages a legal practitioner other than the one assigned by the Legal Services Institution. Legal aid can also be denied or withdrawn in the following circumstances:

- if the aided person who applied under the income category is found to possess sufficient means;
- aided person does not cooperate with the Legal Services Institution or with the Legal Services Advocate;
- in the event of death of the aided person except in the case of civil proceedings where the right or liability survives;

Statement IV is incorrect: One can apply to get free legal aid at any stage of the case as long as one is eligible to obtain free legal services as per Section 12 of the Legal Services Authorities Act, 1987. Even if a person had a personal lawyer before and now requires a legal aid lawyer only at the stage of appeal, the person can make an application to avail the same.

Q.38) With reference to the collegium system of judicial appointments in India, consider the following statements:
I. The Supreme Court collegium consists of Chief Justice of India and four other senior most judges of the court.
II. The present Collegium system was established by the Supreme Court in the First Judges Case of 1981.
III. It came into being through the interpretation of Article 124 and 217 of the Indian Constitution by the Supreme Court.
Which of the statements given above is/are correct?
a) I only
b) II only
c) I and III only
d) I, II and III

Ans) c

Exp) Option c is the correct answer.

Collegium is the system by which judges of the higher judiciary in India – the Supreme Court and High Courts – are appointed and transferred. It does not have its origin in the Constitution or any specific law promulgated by Parliament.

Statement I is correct: The Supreme Court collegium is a five-member body headed by the incumbent Chief Justice of India (CJI), and comprising the four other seniormost judges at that time. High Court collegiums are led by the incumbent Chief Justice and the two other seniormost judges of that court.

Statement II is incorrect: The Second Judges case (The Supreme Court Advocates-on-Record Association Vs Union of India) introduced the collegium system in 1993. It ruled that the CJI would have to consult a collegium of his two senior-most judges in the apex court on judicial appointments. The court held that such a "collective opinion" of the collegium would have primacy over the government. It was the Third Judges case in 1998, which was a Presidential reference, that expanded the judicial collegium to its present composition of the CJI and four of his senior-most judges.

Statement III is correct: The Collegium system originated through judicial interpretation of Article 124 and 217 of the Indian Constitution, which governs the appointment of judges to the Supreme Court and judges to High Courts respectively. The Constitution does not explicitly provide for a "collegium" mechanism; instead, this system evolved over time through landmark judicial pronouncements.

Knowledge Base:

In 'SP Gupta Vs Union of India', 1981 (first judges case), the Supreme Court by a majority judgment held that the concept of primacy of the CJI was not really rooted in the Constitution. The Constitution Bench also held that the term "consultation" used in Articles 124 and 217 did not mean "concurrence" – therefore, although the President will consult these functionaries, his decision was not bound to be in concurrence with all of them. The judgment in the First Judges Case tilted the balance of power in appointments of judges of High Courts in favour of the executive.

Q.39) With reference to the Gram Nyayalayas Act, 2008, consider the following statements:

As per the Act:

I. Gram Nyayalayas can exercise both civil and criminal jurisdiction to the extent provided under the Act.

II. Gram Nyayalayas are guided by the principles of natural justice.

III. The judgment, sentence or order of a Gram Nyayalaya is final and binding and there is no provision for appeal.

Which of the statements given above is/are correct?

a) I and II only

b) I and III only

c) II only

d) I, II and III

Ans) a

Exp) Option a is the correct answer.

The Gram Nyayalayas Act, 2008 was enacted to strengthen access to justice in rural India. It aims to deliver speedy, affordable and doorstep justice, especially to the poor and disadvantaged. The Act also reflects the spirit of Article 39A, which directs the State to ensure equal justice and free legal aid.

Statement I is correct. Gram Nyayalayas are designed as courts of Judicial Magistrate of the first class. Their presiding officer is called the Nyayadhikari. These courts are unique because they exercise both civil and criminal jurisdiction. This dual role helps reduce the burden on regular courts and ensures that disputes at the grassroots level are handled quickly.

Statement II is correct. Gram Nyayalayas are guided by the principles of natural justice. This flexibility allows them to adopt a more practical and less technical approach while deciding cases. It reduces procedural delays and makes the system more accessible to common people, especially those unfamiliar with formal legal procedures.

Statement III is incorrect. There is a provision of appeal. The provisions of appeals from any judgment, sentence or order of a Gram Nyayalaya in criminal cases and civil cases is laid down in Sections 33 and 34 of Gram Nyayalayas Act, 2008.

In criminal matters, appeals from Gram Nyayalayas lie to the Court of Session. Importantly, the Act provides that such appeals should be disposed of within six months. This time-bound mechanism is intended to ensure speedy justice, which is one of the core objectives behind establishing Gram Nyayalayas.
While in civil matters, an appeal lies with the district court. An appeal in civil matters shall be heard and disposed of by the District Court within six months from the date of filing of the appeal.

Q.41) Which one of the following is not the necessary condition for the issue to a Writs of Quo Warranto?
a) The Office must be a Public Office.
b) The Office must be created by the Statute or by the Constitution itself.
c) The Office must not be a substantive one.
d) There has been a contravention of the Constitution or a Statute in appropriating such person to that Office.

Ans) c

Exp) Option c is the correct answer

A writ of Quo Warranto is a legal action that challenges a person's right to hold a public office. It seeks to inquire into the authority by which the person claims to hold the office and whether they have the legal right to do so. The reason option (c) is not a necessary condition for issuing a writ of quo warranto is that the eligibility or legality of holding a substantive office is equally important to ensure that the person holding the office has the necessary qualifications and meets the requirements laid out by law or the constitution.

Q.45) At a recent APEC (Asia-Pacific Economic Cooperation) meeting 2025, China advocated the creation of a global body named WAICO. It was proposed to regulate which of the following?
a) Cross-border digital trade and e-commerce taxation
b) Artificial Intelligence

c) Cryptocurrency and blockchain financial systems
d) Cyber warfare and military use of digital technologies

Ans) b
Exp) Option b is the correct answer.
The proposed World Artificial Intelligence Cooperation Organization (WAICO) is envisaged as a global institutional mechanism to promote shared rules, standards, and international cooperation in Artificial Intelligence (AI). The proposal emphasizes human-centric AI, data sovereignty, algorithmic transparency, and coordinated global AI governance frameworks.

Q.46) Consider the following statements regarding six friends (P, Q, R, S, T, U) :
I. P is taller than Q, R and S.
II. T and U are of the same height.
III. R is taller than T.
IV. Q is taller than U.
V. U is taller than S.
How many statements given above are required to determine the tallest person/persons?
a) Only two
b) Only three
c) Only four
d) All five

Ans) b
Exp) Option b is the correct answer.
Using I: P > Q, R, S
Using III: R > T
So P > R > T, hence P > T.
Using II: T = U, so P > U also.
Now P is taller than Q, R, S, T, U.
Thus, with Statements I, II and III, the tallest person is determined uniquely.
So only 3 statements are required.

Q.47) Let mm, nn and pp be 2-digit numbers where m < n < p and m, n, p are prime digits. If mm + nn + pp = uvw,where uvw is a 3-digit odd number, consider the following statements:
I. The number of possible values of p is 2.
II. The product of the digits u × v × w is 30.
Which of the above statements is/are correct?
a) I only
b) II only
c) Both I and II
d) Neither I nor II

Ans) b
Exp) Option b is the correct answer.
Statement I is incorrect: Prime digits are 2, 3, 5, 7.

Since mm = 11m, nn = 11n, pp = 11p mm + nn + pp = 11(m + n + p).
Check all possible triples:
(2,3,5) → 110, (2,3,7) → 132, (2,5,7) → 154, (3,5,7) → 165
Only 165 is odd, so the only possible triple is (3,5,7) and hence p = 7 only.
So the number of possible values of p is 1, not 2.
Statement II is correct: The only possible value of uvw is 165.
So, u × v × w = 1 × 6 × 5 = 30

Directions for the following 3 (three) items:
Read the following two passages and answer the items that follow the passages. Your answers to these items should be based on the passage only

Passage - 1

In a post-truth world, social media amplifies both accurate and misleading information, often blurring the line between fact and falsehood. This has contributed to rising vaccine hesitancy, fueled by misinformation surrounding the safety and efficacy of vaccines. Addressing vaccine hesitancy is therefore not solely a scientific challenge, but a deeply social one. Emerging global threats, such as the Nipah virus (NiV), highlight that medical countermeasures alone are insufficient to safeguard public health. Public trust remains central to the success of responses to health crises. This necessitates a sustained commitment to transparent communication, community engagement, and public education to ensure that societies are prepared to confront both current and future health threats.

Q.48) With reference to the above passage, the following assumptions have been made:
I. Superstitious beliefs often contribute to the spread of misinformation about vaccines, leading to increased vaccine hesitancy.
II. Vaccine hesitancy poses a significant threat to global health outcomes worldwide.
Which of the above assumptions is/ are valid?
a) I only
b) II only
c) Both I and II
d) Neither I nor II

Ans) b
Exp) Option b is the correct answer.
Statement I is incorrect. The passage talks about the spread of misinformation regarding vaccines. However, it is silent about the source of this misinformation. It could be because of superstitious beliefs or it could be about something else (for ex- fabricated data). Therefore, we cannot conclusively state that assumption made in statement I is correct.
Statement II is correct. The passage states "Public trust remains central to the success of responses to health crises." As vaccine hesitancy hampers public trust, it does pose a significant threat to global health outcomes. Therefore, assumption made in statement II is correct.

Passage - 2

Groundwater in India provides drinking water for about 85 per cent of people in rural areas and irrigation for more than 60 per cent of people. People used to see this dependence as a success story, a quiet revolution that decreased the dependence of farmers on the monsoon rains. But what used to be empowering has turned into overreach. However, Over the past 20 years, groundwater levels in Punjab, Haryana, and parts of Rajasthan have become critical. The main reason for this is a political economy that promotes overuse. Free or heavily subsidised energy for farming has led to too much groundwater pumping. This is compounded by the continued dominance of water intensive crops such as paddy and sugarcane, even in water scarce regions. The result is a classic "tragedy of the commons, where relentless extraction is steadily draining shared aquifers.

Q.49) With reference to the above passage, the following assumptions have been made:
I. Subsidies on groundwater pumping need to be optimized to reduce the overexploitation of groundwater.
II. Cultivation of water-efficient crops should be encouraged in regions facing groundwater depletion.
Which of the above assumptions is/ are valid?
a) I only
b) II only
c) Both I and II
d) Neither I nor II

Ans) c
Exp) Option c is the correct answer.
Statement I is correct. The passage states "Free or heavily subsidised energy for farming has led to too much groundwater pumping." Therefore, optimizing the subsidies on groundwater pumping would reduce the overexploitation of groundwater.
Statement II is correct. The passage states that due to availability of groundwater for irrigation, water intensive crops such as paddy and sugarcane are being grown even in water scarce regions. This has led to further depletion of resources. Therefore, Cultivation of water-efficient crops should be encouraged in regions facing groundwater depletion.

Q.50) With reference to the above passage, which of the following is/are the most rational inferences that can be drawn from the passage?
I. Groundwater is a shared resource which should be utilized in a sustainable manner.
II. Indian agriculture has been freed from the vagaries of the monsoon rains.
Select the correct answer using the code given below:
a) I only
b) II only
c) Both I and II
d) Neither I nor II

Ans) a
Exp) Option a is the correct answer.
Statement I is correct. The passage states that overexploitation of ground water reserves has led to a "tragedy of the commons". From here, we can infer that groundwater is a shared resource which should be utilized in a sustainable manner.
Statement II is incorrect. The passage states availability of groundwater has reduced the dependence of farmers on monsoon. However, statement II takes an extreme position by stating that Indian agriculture has been completely freed from the vagaries of monsoon rains. Therefore, it is incorrect.
